

INTEREST TURNS NOW
TO THE DARDANELLES
ALLIES HAVE LANDED

FRENCH AND BRITISH FORCES
WITH CO-OPERATION OF FLEET ARE MAKING ATTEMPTS TO FORCE STRAITS AND OPEN WAY TO THE TURKISH CAPITAL.

TURKS CLAIM ENEMY REPULSED

Much Activity Along Western Front,
But No Big Battle Is in Progress.
Reported That British Have Begun
Offensive in the Neighborhood of Armentieres.

London, April 29.—With the battle
in Flanders seemingly at an end except for the attacks which the allies are making to recover the rest of the ground which they lost last week, the interest of the public has turned to the Dardanelles, where the French and British forces have been landed and with the co-operation of the fleet
are making attempts to force the Straits and open the way to Constantinople.

How far these operations have progressed only those on the spot and the highest authorities at home know. The British have landed at three points on the Gallipoli peninsula and have thrown a line across the outer point of the peninsula. Other British troops are threatening the Bulair line of forts and the French are looking after the Turks on the Asiatic side of the Straits.

The Turks report that all the landing parties have been repulsed, but the British reports, which are very brief, content themselves with the statement that progress is being made and ignore entirely the Turkish claims to victory.

Along the western front in France
there is much activity, but no big battle is in progress, although there are reports that the British have begun an offensive in the neighborhood of Armentieres.

The Germans apparently do not contemplate a movement in force on the west end of the line, as they reopened
today the Belgian-Dutch frontier, which is always closed when the Germans are on the move.

Heavy fighting continues in the Carpathians for Uzsoz Pass and in the direction of Stry, where the Austrians are threatening the Russian communications. The report comes from Berlin that the Austrians have again invaded Bessarabia, but there is no confirmation of this in the Austrian official statement received tonight.

Russians again have taken the offensive against the Turkish invaders
on Persia and have driven them from the border town of Kofur.

Dispatches from neutral countries report that a great concentration of Austrian troops is taking place on the Italian frontier as a measure against the possibility of Italy joining the allies and that troops are being conveyed by sea to every coast town in Dalmatia and Istria.

Austrians Advance Into Russia.

Budapest, April 29.—A special dispatch received here reports that the Austrians yesterday occupied Novoseliv, on the border of Bessarabia,
and are now advancing victoriously
into Russian territory.

The Pester Lloyd prints a Dardanelles dispatch which says that the Turkish batteries at Kabatepeh sank twelve sloops in which the allies were landing corps which were retreating.

Believe Kolberg Was Sunk.

Lerwick, Scotland, April 29.—The finding today near the south end of this island that its engines used on
"Kolberg" is believed here to confirm the report made at the time that the German cruiser Kolberg was sunk
in the battle in the North Sea, Jan. 24.

Katy Must Use Its Smithville Shops

Austin, Tex., April 29.—A writ of mandamus commanding the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway company of Texas to resume the activities of its Smithville shops on the same scale
as on Jan. 25, 1913, was granted this morning by Judge George Calhoun of the Fifty-third district court.

The court found that among other things the railroad company was bound by a former court decision to repair and rebuild its engines used on the Smithville division, at the Smithville shops, and that this had been discontinued. In all other respects it was found that the former court order had been complied with and the state's motion was overruled except with reference to this one point.

Judge Williams Back.

Austin, Tex., April 29.—Judge W. D.
Williams, member of the railroad commission, today is back at his desk,
after having been confined to his home with illness for several months.
Judge Williams has almost recovered
from his recent illness.

WOMEN SHOULD VOTE MEN

Says Cheap Politicians Hate W. C.
T. U.—Give Liquor Traffic Four
More Years in the United States.
Looney Is Commended for His Stand
on Pro Question.

Houston, Tex., April 29.—That the Women's Christian Temperance union is lining up for active participation in Texas politics was shown at today's session of the state convention here,
and that the late Governor O. B. Colquitt will find in the organization a staunch enemy, should he attempt to run for the United States senate in 1916, was also shown in a remark
made by the state president, Mrs.
Nannie Curtis of Waco.

"I want to tell you right now, Oscar
B. Colquitt is going to make the race for the United States senate, and I want you to go back to your homes
and work for his inglorious defeat,"
she said, amid uproarious applause.
"I want to tell you that these cheap politicians hate the W. C. T. U., and I wouldn't give one cent for a woman who can't vote six men."

Temperance women give the liquor traffic four more years in the United States. B. F. Looney, attorney general, was commended for his stand on the prohibition question.

Miss Zola Samuels of Hempstead, won first place in the state gold medal contest at the evening session of the convention. Her subject was "College Oil Can." The evening session was largely musical, and no business was transacted.

Will Force Air Into Sunken Submarine

Washington, April 29.—An effort to raise the sunken submarine F-4, by forcing air into her tanks from the cruiser Maryland, will be undertaken,
according to a report to the navy department today from Rear Admiral Moore at Honolulu. Experts here say the experiment could be successful
only if the tanks had not been seriously injured. The plan is to force the water out of the tanks with air
until the submarine rises to the surface. Navy officials said the task would be difficult, owing to the depth
at which the boat lies, and the depth
at which divers must work to make necessary connections. Only one line to the submarine still is in place, Admiral Moore reported, the other three having been parted by the heavy swell
which delayed operations yesterday.

Character Witness
in the Lawson Case

Trinidad, Colo., April 29.—Edward Keating, representative in congress from Colorado, testified today as a character witness for John H. Lawson, labor leader on trial for the murder of John Nimmo, a deputy sheriff,
at Ludlow, Oct. 25, 1913.

Witnesses for the defense were introduced today at the Horace H. Hawkins, chief counsel for Lawson, had stated in his opening statement he expected to prove that the battle in which Nimmo was killed was started by deputy sheriffs Mrs. Alec Lowe and that the fighting was started by deputies stationed at a railroad bridge
just south of Ludlow firing at the tent colony of the striking coal miners.
She said she was at her home in Ranaville, near Ludlow, the day of the battle.

Hair-Woodward at Temple.

Temple, April 29.—A wedding in which the contrasting parties are of unusual social prominence was consummated here last night at Christ Episcopal church, when Miss Christine Hair, daughter of Hon. Will W. Hair
of Temple, and Nick P. Woodward, city attorney of Temple, were united in marriage by Rev. Curtis Fletcher rector of the church, in the presence of relatives and many invited friends.
After a short wedding tour the couple will return here to take up their residence.

Interest in Belton Oil Situation.

Belton, April 29.—Considerable excitement exists here over the oil situation and today a company was organized to prospect and exploit the field near Schweitzer, midway between this city and Taylor, where oil and gas indications have existed for a long time. The company is making arrangements to drill test wells as soon
as all preliminaries have been complied with.

STATE WILL APPEAL GRANTING OF JURY SANITY TEST TO HARRY THAW

THAW AFTER WINNING SANITY TEST AND DEPUTY SHERIFF

Following the granting of the application for a jury trial to test the sanity of Harry K. Thaw by Justice Hendrick of the supreme court, who set May 17 for the beginning of the trial, Attorney General Woodbury made it plain that the state would fight the submission of Thaw's sanity to a jury to the finish and in view of the action of Thaw's attorneys would take advantage of every technicality of the law. The accompanying photograph of Thaw was taken in the New York court room just after Justice Hendrick had rendered the decision so favorable to the famous prisoner.

House of Commons
Balks at High Tax on Alcoholic Drinks

London, April 29.—The proposals introduced in the house of commons this afternoon by David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, to double the duty on spirits, quadruple the duties on wines and to institute an increase by graduated tax on beer—
were strongly opposed and it is generally believed that the new taxes will have to be moderated before parliament will accept them.

The O'Brienites as a protest against an additional taxation on Irish whiskies and beers brought about the first division in the house since the outbreak of the war by voting against the provisional resolutions bringing the taxes into force at once, to prevent withdrawals from bond while parliament is dealing with the matter.
The resolution relating to spirits was passed 89 to 5, the minority being composed of O'Brienites.

Mr. O'Brien declared the chancellor was killing the trade of Ireland by imposing such a tax on his new taxes the results would be horrible
for Cork as if that city were bombarded and sacked by the Germans.
The only just and logical course was to exclude Ireland altogether from the operation of the plan.

The nationalists also protested
against the measure, but did not vote.
The unionists who withheld criticism
until all the facts could be placed before them, also abstained from voting.
The laborites promised to reply to the chancellor's charges that a minority of the workmen, lured away by money, were not putting their best efforts into the work of producing material which is so badly needed by the soldiers at the front.

The proposed appointment of a board of control and the proposal to take over for canteen purposes the saloons in the munitions of war areas
and to compensate all interests are generally approved by the members.

Compilations of Transportation Costs
Packery Products

Chicago, April 29.—Compilations of transportation costs and revenues on packing house products were introduced today before W. M. Daniels, interstate commerce commissioner, hearing the western freight rate case, to show that 40 per cent gross profit was made on such traffic by the Chicago and Alton railroad on its western division and that a gross profit of 36
per cent was made by the Northwestern railroad on similar traffic from Council Bluffs to Chicago.

The testimony was given by Fred Petitjohn of St. Paul, an expert accountant, in detail, described the method by which he arrived at his conclusions that fresh meats and packing house products transported on a special contract at a rate 5c below the competitive rate from Kansas City to the Mississippi river and 5c
lower than the proposed advance
sought by forty-one western railroad systems earned the Chicago and Alton road 40 per cent gross profit. 36
Counsel for the railroads attacked
the methods of computation used by Mr. Petitjohn, who admitted his revenue figures were an approximation.

Details of Tragedy
in Which Man Kills Friend, Then Self

Temple, Tex., April 29.—Further particulars were obtained this morning of the tragedy enacted at Alvirne,
a farming settlement, fifteen miles
east of here, last night in which Jos.
Belan was shot and killed with a shotgun which was later turned upon himself by Ben Schiller with instantly fatal results. The two men were prominent and well-to-do Bohemian farmers, friends and neighbors of years standing. Yesterday afternoon they quarrelled over the matter of a ditch separating their farms. Schiller was deeply embittered by the quarrel and early in the night armed himself with a double-barrel shotgun, sought out Belan and fired with both barrels,
the man dying almost instantly.
Proceeding to the home of another neighbor, Schiller told what had occurred and said he was going home to kill himself.

Schiller then made his way home,
called his family together and told of the occurrence and that he would be hanged for it unless he killed himself.

The neighbor in whom he at first confided soon arrived and joined his plans. He and Schiller were bound not to say that the charges are true.
You are bound to set forth the facts.
"That you have failed utterly to
do with respect to the Albany-Lincoln, Texas and Galveston conditions,
but I am inclined to think you have done it with respect to the printing
charges."

A letter nearly similar to the one introduced as being Governor Whit-man's in controversy in New York prior to the last election. There was some doubt at that time whether the letter actually had been written by the then district attorney and he never admitted it.

The letter produced today, however,
was actually signed, the attorneys said, by Mr. Whitman.

Wm. M. Ivins, chief counsel for Wm. Barnes, said last tonight that he had telegraphed to Governor Whitman asking him to appear as a witness in rebuttal and testify regarding the authenticity of the letter read today and other matters. Counsel for Colonel Roosevelt said they had submitted the letter to persons who are familiar with the governor's signature who declared it was his.

When Colonel Roosevelt entered the court room today the spectators applauded. He was smiling as he took the witness chair.

"How did you finally happen to be nominated for vice president in 1900?"
asked the counsel.

An objection was sustained.
"Did President McKinley send you a communication on that subject?"
"Yes."

"Did you accept after receiving the message?"
Another objection was sustained.
Later he said: "I accepted so as to gratify President McKinley."

"Do you remember hearing that any of the men named by Mr. Ivins contributed to your campaign fund in 1904?"

Until after I left the presidency I never heard the names of those men
as having been contributors. I heard most of them the first time when they were read here."

"I knew some people had contributed, but I didn't know how much."

"Was any other action against any corporation in which Mr. Morgan or other gentlemen whose names appeared as contributors were interested during your administration?"

An objection was sustained.

ROOSEVELT FINALLY IS EXCUSED FROM THE WITNESS STAND

TELLS HOW HE ENDED THE PAN-IC OF 1907 AND IDENTIFIES A LETTER IN WHICH WHITMAN WROTE OF GETTING RID OF PARTY CONTROL.

SAID BOTH PARTIES RESPONSIBLE

Swears William Barnes Told Him He Had an Agreement With Charles F.
Murphy Not to Interfere in Selecting of Senator in 1911—Stood Eight Days' Ordeal Well.

Syracuse, N. Y., April 29.—Theodore Roosevelt was excused from the witness stand today in the $50,000 suit for alleged libel, which Wm. Barnes has brought against him, after he told his own story of how he ended
the panic in 1907, and had identified a letter in which Charles S. Whitman, now governor of New York, wrote that he thought the time was ripe to rid the state of the kind of party control which was mainly responsible for corrupt conditions.

In the letter the governor declared that the men and policies responsible for such corruption were not confined to any one party, but the colonel said he believed Mr. Barnes was referred to. William Loeb Jr., once the colonel's private secretary in the white house and later collector of the port of New York, was a witness.

He swore that Wm. Barnes told him that he had an agreement with Charles F. Murphy of Tammany Hall not to interfere in the selection of United States senator. That was in 1911 prior to the time Jas. A. O'Garra was chosen.

Of the panic in 1907 the colonel told how Henry C. Frick and Judge E. H. Gary had come to him in the white house and told him that if the J. P. Morgan interests could take over the Tennessee Coal and Iron company before the exchange opened that morning the stock, much of which was held as collateral, would immediately become enhanced in value and the business of the country,
which was "trembling on a hair,"
would not be suspended. The colonel told how he took action in the matter. He said "The panic was stopped."

Colonel Roosevelt swore that he had not heard the names of the many men who were said to have contributed large sums to his campaign fund
in 1904 until they were read in court
during cross-examination.

Counsel for the plaintiff and defendant fought over virtually every piece of important evidence presented today.

Barnes Takes Notes.

Mr. Barnes spent the greater part of the day in taking notes on a pad of paper. After the reading of the papers from the stand he read a magazine for awhile, but when Mr. Loeb and George B. Agnew, former state senator, were on the stand the defendant paid close attention to everything they said. Mr. Agnew gave testimony concerning voting in the senate upon the race track legislation and the manner in which he said Senator Gratton defeated the bill after being advised by Mr. Barnes how to cast his deciding vote.

Justice Andrews in a statement
while the jury was out of the room asserted that no evidence had been produced to show that Mr. Barnes had been advised by Mr. Agnew to vote "corruptly" inasmuch as the municipal government of Albany was concerned and added, "where the libel charges a man with being a thief,
it is not enough to say simply that the charge is true, but one must set up in the answer the facts from which the inference is made."

"Here the charge is that Mr.
Barnes was corrupt in one way or another. You are bound not simply to say that the charges are true.
You are bound to set forth the facts.
"That you have failed utterly to
do with respect to the Albany-Lincoln, Texas and Galveston conditions,
but I am inclined to think you have
done it with respect to the printing
charges."

NO RECOGNITION BY UNITED STATES OF MEXICAN FACTIONS

HIGH OFFICIALS AT WASHING-TON DECLARE PRESENT POL-ICY WILL BE CONTINUED—BRY-AN SAYS HAS NOT BEEN FORM-ALLY CONSIDERED.

CARRANZA PRESENTS INTENTIONS

Are in Hands of Officials, but Not Submitted for Expression of Opinion, or with View Toward Recognition—Friend of Chief Calls on Secretary Bryan.

Washington, April 29.—Recognition of any factions in Mexico during the present uncertain state of affairs is not contemplated by the United States government, according to expressions today by high officials.

Secretary Bryan told inquirers that the subject of recognition had not reached the point of formal consideration. Persons close to the white house said President Wilson intended to study the question carefully before committing the government to a recognition of any of the Mexican elements and that he did not propose to take any action until the military situation in Mexico City clarified itself.

Published reports that a statement to be issued by General Carranza covering his intentions and program had been drafted on a suggestion from the Washington administration and was now before Secretary Bryan and President Wilson were met with the explanation that what purported to be the views of the first chief had been presented unofficially to the state department, but "had not been submitted for an expression of opinion or with any view toward recognition."

Richard H. Cole of Los Angeles,
Cal., a personal friend of General Carranza, who recently has been active in his behalf in Washington, called on Secretary Bryan last today, but refused to disclose the object of his visit. It is known, however, that he has been assisting the Carranza agency here in its efforts to pave the way for the opening of diplomatic relations with the Washington government.

The principles under which the United States would be guided in dealing with the subject of recognition have been impressed from time to time on the heads of important elements in the Mexican situation. Until there is evidence of an agreement among the principal leaders the general belief
here is that recognition will be withheld.

State department reports from Mexico today announced that Don West, President Wilson's special representative, was expected to reach Vera Cruz
some time tonight. It is understood now that the railroad is open from Mexico City to Vera Cruz.

Katy Finances Its
$19,000,000 Notes

St. Louis, April 29.—President
C. E. Schaff of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway telephoned from New York City to the main office of the railroad here tonight
that the financing of the $19,000,000
note issue, due tomorrow, had been completed.

Mr. Schaff said that 80 per cent of the notes had been deposited and that the remainder of the notes, held abroad, was on the way to the committee handling the notes.

Arrangements to pay the interest on the notes tomorrow had been made, Mr. Schaff said, and the entire issue would be renewed until May 1, 1916.

Texas "Bucket Shop"
Law Under Fire

Washington, April 29.—The question of whether the Texas "bucket shop" law bars the enforcement of that state of contracts for future sales of cotton on the New York cotton exchange was submitted to the supreme court today by the judges of the Fifth United States circuit court of appeals. When Allen & Butterfield of New York sued J. L. Hume of Austin, Tex., for orders to sell and buy future cotton, the federal district court
in Texas held that such a contract could not be enforced. On appeal, the circuit court was doubtful about the law and certified the question to the supreme court.

Judge J. K. P. Gillespie Dead.

Houston, Tex., April 29.—Judge J. K.
P. Gillespie, for many years prosecutor at large and later judge of the criminal district court for Galveston and Harris counties died early this morning, aged 62. He was a native Texan and enjoyed the distinction of having prosecuted and convicted the only white man ever legally hanged
in this section of Texas.

Women's Congress Opposes Secret Treaties by Nations

The Hague, via London, April 29.—
The entire session today of the International Congress of Women was devoted to the discussion and adoption of resolutions. The first resolution provided for democratic control in framing the foreign policies of nations. As amended and adopted, this resolution recommended the nullification of all secret treaties and the participation of the people at least through the legislative branches of governments. The second resolution, presented by Miss Emily Balch of Wellesley college, op-

BILL TO ASK CONGRESS TO PEN-SION CONFEDERATE VETERANS
DEFEATED — INSURANCE LAW
MODIFICATION INTRODUCED BY REPRESENTATIVES.

ORGANIZATION IS COMPLETED

Rev. S. H. Morgan of Elgin Elected
Chaplain of Senate—Ten Changes Made in Other Officials of the Upper House—Bailey Does Not Address the Legislature.

Austin, Tex., April 29.—Introduction of the bill proposing modification of the Robertson insurance law, defeat of a resolution to ask congress to pension Confederate veterans, reading of the governor's message, engross-ment of mileage and per diem and content expense bills and introduction of three sections of the general appropriation bill, constitute the record of the first day of the special session of the Thirty-fourth legislature. The insurance law modification bill, which will furnish most of the excitement of the session, was introduced in the house by Representatives Grindstaff, Mcaskill and Nichols. The resolution providing for pensioning Confederate veterans from the United States government was introduced by Hopkins and others and after spirited speeches from Tillotson and others
was indefinitely postponed by a vote of 43 to 40.

The governor's message was brief
and punctuated with characteristic Ferguson epigrams.

Both Houses Adjourn.

Both houses organized and got down to business this afternoon and the senate elected Rev. S. H. Morgan of Elgin chaplain over a number of other candidates. Only minor changes were made in other officials of the senate,
M. F. Humberg being re-elected sergeant at arms over his second assistant, H. G. Taylor. There were no other contests.

Representative Dayton of Cooke
county asks former Senator Joseph W.
Bailey will not be here to address the legislature, as had been contemplated,
but that he, nevertheless, will be a candidate for the United States senate
to succeed Senator Culberson. Mr.
Bailey is counsel for the Riggs National bank in Washington in its suit against Secretary McAdoo and Comptroller Williams in alleged attempts on the part of the government to keep him to injure the bank. The case is set for hearing in May and the former senator is busy preparing for it. Mr.
Dayton is enthusiastic in saying Bailey
will be in the race.

In the senate the members were allowed six daily papers each and the house allowed just half that number to each of its members. The house allowed $10 for telephonic and telegraphic service and $15 for each member for postage.

The mileage and per diem bill carries $60,000 appropriation and the content expense bill $16,000. The figures in the appropriation bills introduced are as given in today's dispatches and the educational bill, yet to be introduced, will carry $4,118,112.

The governor's message was as follows:

Governor's Message.

To the Called Session of the Thirty-Fourth Legislature:

"For reasons set forth in an official proclamation, you have been respectedly invited to convene in extra-session and I trust that your rest from the arduous labor of the regular session has been such as to bring you back with renewed hope and ambition
to consider the questions before you.
I again invite your earnest co-operation, and indicate the hope that harmony and good will will, as usual, pervade your councils thereby enabling us all to think right and do right.
I tender you my best wishes, and I

Still Uneasiness Over Brazos Rise

Houston, Tex., April 29.—The seriousness of the Brazos river flood seems by no means passed. The crest of the new flood apparently has reached below Chappell Hill and was at Hempstead Thursday, the stage at that point Thursday morning being 48.4 feet. The fall will be slow. Stages at Brenham are about midway between the high marks reached during the flood of 1913 and those of last May. People are moving from the low places in the bottom of Washington county. Rosenberg reports the river as having risen a foot Thursday and still rising there. That makes the stage over thirty-five feet at Rosenberg which shows a precarious situation. The water Thursday night had broken over back of the bridge at Rosenberg and every one was deserting the bottom lands as is the case in all lower reaches of the Brazos. Wallis reports a flood of water that beggars description. The water only lacks about seven feet of equalling 1913 there and is still rising at the rate of four inches an hour. The entire bottom is covered from one to eight feet.

John Friedholm Dead.
John Friedholm, age 70, died at 10 o'clock last night at the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Louise Friedholm, 2315 Parrott avenue. Funeral will be at 5 o'clock this afternoon from the residence, with burial at Oakwood cemetery.
Mr. Friedholm was a native of Sweden, coming to Waco from Round Rock, Tex., only recently. He is survived by a brother, P. Friedholm of Austin, and a sister, Miss Clara Friedholm, also of Austin, and several nieces and nephews in Waco.

Grandview Man Dies.

ARKANSAS MAKES THE MOST IMPROVEMENTSTATE WINS FLAG FOR CIVIC DEVELOPMENT DURING YEAR.WOMEN COME TO THE FRONT

They Held Center of Stage at Southern Commercial Congress at Muskogee.

Muskogee, Okla., April 29.—Arkansas was awarded the flag of merit of the women's auxiliary of the Southern Commercial Congress here tonight as being the state that has accomplished most toward civic improvement in the last year. The flag was held by Tennessee last year.

In making the award, Miss Louise G. Lindsey of Nashville, Tenn., president general of the women's auxiliary, pointed out the vast improvement made by Arkansas in rural schools, roads and sanitation. City women and country women in Arkansas are learning to co-operate in facing their problems and are thus removing a big obstacle in the path of progress, she said.

For the first time since the opening of the convention the women's auxiliary conducted the night session. American women can do much to help solve the problems of rural and town credit by observing the modes of European peasant women with regard to clothing, according to an assertion of Mrs. Marion Sherwood Lahman of Tulsa, Okla. Mrs. Lahman presented a report of the American commission, of which she was a member last year, by governors of the various states and sanctioned by President Wilson to investigate agricultural conditions in Europe.

"European women make their clothing for warmth and utility and of a style that is as fixed as the laws of Medes and the Persians," she said. "This example, if followed by my fashionable sisters, would be a tremendous factor in the solution of many of our financial problems."

Speaking of intensive farming in Europe, Mrs. Lahman pointed out that the part played by European women in working farm lands permit of a system of cultivation which our farmers cannot afford.

"I doubt if the most ardent advocate of applying the European plan to our country would use Kansas, for instance, to double the number of her farm laborers in the same way she doubled her voters," she said. Mrs. Lahman told in detail of the value of European county plans in doing the routine of farm work.

Miss Lindsey urged closer relations with South American nations in her annual address, asserting it is the duty of every state to compel the teaching of Spanish in the public schools.

"The Panama canal has given us the opportunity, we should seize it," she said.

Mrs. B. A. Enloe of Nashville, Tenn., pointed out that "the greatest field in which women of today can labor is in obtaining legislation along the lines of jury reform. The practice carried on in some states of requiring errand children to be dealt with in the same manner in which we deal with adult criminals is barbaric," she said.

As an aftermath of the address of Senator Joseph E. Ransdell of Louisiana before the congress earlier in the week, preliminary steps were taken here today toward the organization of an association to promote the navigation of the Arkansas river and a meeting to effect a permanent organization was called to be held July 4 at Rock. Delegations representing the commercial bodies of Tulsa, Little Rock, Fort Smith and Muskogee participated. Senator Ransdell pointed out that the river is navigable to Muskogee and should be used.

George W. Perkins' Address.
"The tariff and the Sherman anti-trust law are the greatest asset of our politicians and the greatest liability of our merchants," declared George W. Perkins of New York, before the congress today. He spoke on "The New South and the New World" and discussed what he called another great reconstruction period, when the New South is no longer that of Henry Grady's day, but of Thomas Edison's day, with its problems no longer sectional, but national and international.

Mr. Perkins declared that laws are such now that no man can find out what he can legally do in business.

"No lawyer, court or president can tell him," he said, "and while his transactions may clearly be proper."

MILLER OF DALLASSO CONCLUSIVE WAS IT THAT HE THINKS VITALITAS A NE-CESSITY IN EVERY HOME.

Results of a year's test of natural Vitalitas are discussed by Mr. M. H. Miller of 1409 North Peak street, Dallas. At one time Mr. Miller was one of the city's active real estate men, but he is now retired; he is 73.

"Several years ago I suffered a stroke of paralysis and following was in a run down condition; my kidneys were affected and I suffered acute pains. About a year ago I started taking Vitalitas and it has benefited me in a number of ways; first it put my kidneys in excellent condition and I have no further trouble with them. It made my digestion better and renewed my vitality. I now enjoy almost perfect health. I think Vitalitas is a necessity in every home where there is ailing or affliction."

As Mr. Miller suggests, Vitalitas should be in every home as a safe tonic and corrective. In the treatment of chronic disorders of stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and blood it will be found wonderfully effective.

You can get Vitalitas today at Powers-Kelly Drug Co.

collection of the back taxes, which the retiring companies owe the state of Texas. The companies claim they do not owe the taxes, and have signified their willingness if the other provisions of the Gibson bill are enacted, to come back and have that question determined by the Texas courts. For seven long years the state has made no effort to collect these taxes, if they are due. No criticism is to be indulged, for failure to attempt to collect the taxes. The case would probably have had to have been brought in the federal court. It now develops that the state for the first time has an opportunity to have determined by its own judiciary whether they have a claim for taxes or not. And let it now be remembered that the man who now stands in the way of the passage of this law is now the man who wants to collect these taxes if they are due and he should be ready and willing to take his medicine, where thirty days ago he was wanting to ram down somebody else.

"I hope that you will make such progress that I may be able to submit some other important questions for your deliberations."

New State Blind Institute.

In the appropriation bill for the state eleemosynary institutions, it is learned today, is an appropriation of $250,000 for the establishment of a new state blind institute. It will be recalled that at the last regular session a bill was introduced carrying an appropriation of $500,000 for this purpose, but the measure died for lack of sufficient time to consider it. Thus, the amount is reduced now to $250,000. Another important provision in connection with this appropriation is that it provides that the governor and board of managers of the institution shall select the site and that it need not be necessarily confined to Austin, while in the regular session bill, it was specifically stated that the new institution shall be located on a site near Austin. The $250,000 appropriation is not made available until the fiscal year of 1917.

April—the Diamond Month

THIS is April, the month of diamonds. Tradition for ages has named the diamond the birthstone for the post-Lenten month, and has said that good fortune comes to those who wear their birthstone.

THIS bit of sentiment along with the beauty and permanent value of diamonds makes them particularly desirable. Should you want to get yourself something really fine, or something also for some friend, the best advice we can give you is "get a diamond."

DIAMONDS will always be admired for their beauty, and as an investment they have a permanent and increasing value.

as the Gibson bill. In my opinion recent developments have shown conclusively that we must cultivate every connection and source which might bring more capital into the state. It will be urged that the insurance companies will take out as much money as they will bring in. I do not think such will be the case, but if it is it will equalize the distribution of capital in a way that will make untold benefits to the great mass of the people. If the people in the cities and towns want to buy insurance then let them do so, but let the money be loaned to the people in the country at a reasonable rate to pay for homes and develop the uncultivated area of the state.

THE PLEASURE AND PROFIT WITH MRS. MARCELLUS BROOKS

Quite a full attendance and quite a good time was the verdict of the Pleasure and Profit for its session with Mrs. Marcellus Brooks. The principal topic of conversation while the needles and crochet hooks plied was the coming entertainment in which the club will have a number of guests. This will come with middle May. In the meantime, the club will perfect detail in a session with Mrs. Bryson.

NOVELTY CLUB ADJOURNS FOR SUMMER VACATION

It was the pleasure of Mrs. E. L. Thomas, the retiring president to have the last session of the Novelty club in her home out on Colcord avenue. Anticipating adjournment, Mrs. Thomas made this a "forget-me-not" party. Both in the diversion and the refreshment plate, this suggestion was made. Mrs. Parks was the only guest other than club members. The Novelty will meet no more until autumn days roll round again.

WEDNESDAY MATINEE WITH MRS. MAYER

In entertaining her club, the Wednesday Matinee, Mrs. Herman Mayer filled out absent places, thus keeping the game to its regular size. The club will follow its accustomed pleasures of late afternoon and evening cutting with husbands and children. If present plan holds this will come at the country club. The members will assist in promoting sale of tickets for the "Mikado."

LOCAL GIRL ARTISTS FORM STUDIO CLUB

And now it is in order to welcome the young girl artists of Waco as a formal club. By joining, it was found that at least a dozen Waco girls were pursuing some phase of art, practical or ornamental. Then it was thought that the interchange of ideas would be helpful and acceptable. Hence, the call was made, and with Miss Esse Forrester, the club has come into existence. With Miss Laurine Gay on Thursday, there will be election of officers and arrangement concerning plan of session, dues, and such. The charter members are, the Misses Forrester, Lillian Halbert, Madeline Puett, Laurine Gay, Emmabel Eastburn, Martha Mayhew, Lucile Gooch, Edmond and Rose Edmond. Miss Kyle Pace, president of the class of '33, Salem college, is in receipt of official information concerning the general reunion of alumnae to be held May 21-25. This will be the one hundred and thirteenth commencement and will be marked by many interesting exercises among which will be the unveiling of the Emma A. The speakers will be the Rev. Bertram Brown of Tabor, who delivers the baccalaureate sermon, and Dr. C. Alphonso Smith of the University of Virginia, who will make the commencement address.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

PICNIC MENUS FROM PACKAGES.

HERE are some sample menus that would answer for a hungry party of Saturday to Monday guests. If no servants are available, as is sometimes the case, the food will be found easy to prepare.

For breakfasts, coffee from tins, marmalade or jam or strained honey in glass, muffins made from fresh eggs and milk and flour and baking powder from tins, cereals from paper packages and eggs are all available.

Luncheon and dinner need not vary very greatly in this informal sort of living. Both should be hearty, yet neither should be formal, and the menus suggested below would answer.

Canned Corned Beef.
Mustard Pickles.
Hot Macaroni and Tomato Sauce.
Cold Asparagus with Salad Dressing.
Wafers.
Cheese.
Coffee.

The canned corned beef is delicious and should be daintily sliced. The macaroni comes ready cooked with the tomato sauce and needs only heating, or else it can be cooked, and the sauce can be made from canned tomatoes. For the next dish, drain canned asparagus and chill it and serve five stalks of it on each plate with a tablespoonful of bottled salad dressing.

Chicken Gumbo Soup.
Baked Beans.
Vegetable Salad.
Nuts.
Raisins.
Toasted Wafers.
Cheese.

The soup and beans more need heating. Make the so called salad by scalding canned vegetables and then chilling them and mixing them with bottled salad dressing. Of course there will be no lettuce to serve with them, but, nevertheless, they will be well worth eating. String beans and peas and asparagus tips make a good combination.

Tomato Bisque.
Scalloped Salmon. Cold Sliced Ham.
Chowchow. Spinach.
Jam Tarts.
Coffee.

The soup comes ready to heat and serve. For the salmon make a white sauce of fresh or canned milk, thickened with flour. Put the salmon in layers with cracker crumbs in individual dishes or a large, shallow one, sprinkle with crumbs and bake brown. The ham comes sliced in a glass jar, and the spinach needs only heating—and, by the way, it is far ahead of the spinach served at most tables in taste. For the tarts, put a bit spoonful of jam on a small round wafer and call it a tart.

done, and plans for broader influence are laid. The election of school trustees, which comes within a few days, finds the mothers not allied to the interest of any candidate for formal endorsement. This they desire to be expressly understood. The Mothers' clubs, or Parent-Teacher associations, as they are more technically designated, close their labor with the school term, hence the new regime has the summer with which to formulate plans for a new winter's work as well as for the placing of a woman on the city school board, the sentiment for which grows stronger each day, both with men and women.

MRS. PEYTON RANDLE HAS HER CARD CLUB

The Wednesday Euchre club had quite an enjoyable game with Mrs. Peyton Randle. Several absentees gave opportunity to Mrs. Randle for substitute guests, principal among these being Mrs. Willielu Tibbs Summers of Boston, who is among her old home friends for a few days. Mrs. C. E. Smith was a late caller. After the exciting game, the award of high score found Mrs. Harvey Richey winner of a Doulton plate. The cut for

How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from Powers-Kelly Drug Co., and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

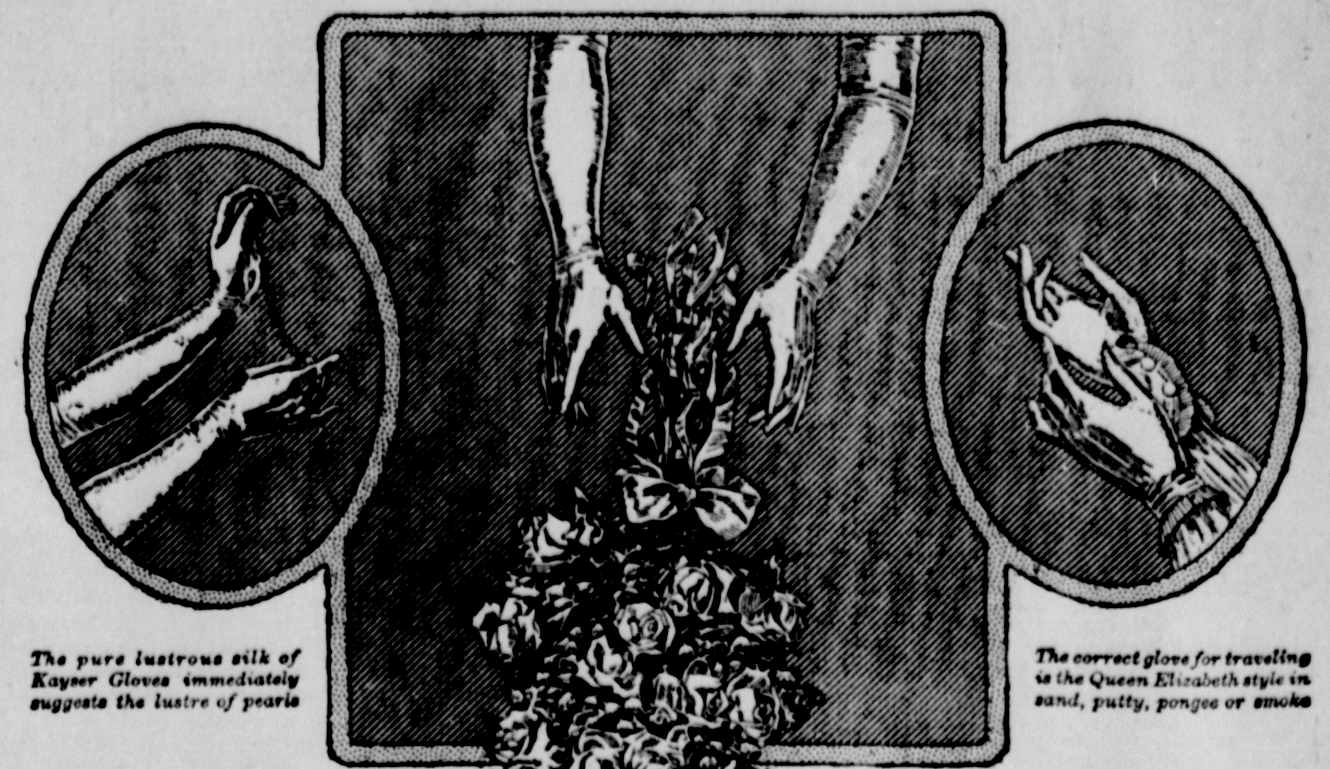

Be sure that the druggist for the double strength othine, as this is the prescription sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

The silk in Kayser Silk Gloves is the reason for their lasting

More women wear them than all other silk gloves combined. Millions of women and twelve thousand dealers prefer Kayser Silk Gloves not merely because they are the best known gloves in Europe and America but because they have found out from actual experience that:

Kayser Silk Gloves wear so much better The very foundation of Kayser Gloves—the Kayser Silk—is pure and strong. Fine workmanship alone could not make Kayser Silk Gloves wear longer if the silk itself were not right. In 30 years of silk spinning, we have learned how to make use of a heavier pure silk thread (no weighting) without interfering with the delightful coolness of the gloves. You therefore get a silkier glove but not a heavier one. This makes Kayser Silk Gloves wear so much longer that millions of women have learned that the one thing to look for in a silk glove is the trade-mark "Kayser."

Notice to Subscribers

Delivery routes in the City of Waco are in the hands of independent carriers, who buy their papers at wholesale prices. Subscription accounts are due them, not The Waco Morning News. They are under heavy bond, not only to give the best delivery service, but to pay for their papers each month. Their remuneration is the difference between the wholesale price and the retail price which they receive from subscribers. This margin of profit is such that they cannot afford to extend credit, except month by month. They are not required, and they are advised against delivering the paper to anyone who does not pay in accordance with the above subscription terms. These carriers are all earnest, hard working men and they will appreciate any courtesy shown them.

The Morning News should be delivered throughout the City of Waco by 6:30 a. m. and subscribers failing to receive the paper at that time will confer a favor by phoning the Circulation Department, both phones 1132, and a copy will be sent by special messenger.

Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation which may appear in the columns of The Morning News will be gladly corrected upon its being brought to the attention of the management.

CONSERVING HUMAN LIFE.

Twenty-four thousand persons die unnecessarily in Texas every year, according to an estimate made by Dr. W. B. Collins, state health officer, his figures being based upon the fact that this number of persons die from diseases that could be easily prevented. And we have an idea that these figures would loom much larger if accurate vital statistics could be procured from every county in the state.

This is a severe indictment to bring against our present-day civilization, but it takes indictments of this character—where they are warranted—and much agitation to arouse the people to the necessity of large, intelligent, constructive action in such important matters as conserving human life through promoting public health.

Many of these people could be saved to life and health if there were more hospitals where they could go and secure the proper surroundings and treatment, in the opinion of Dr. Collins, but as he points out, "Most of these cases of deaths occur in families which can ill-afford the burden of sickness and many families are handicapped by the financial expense of the sickness of one or more members every year."

"It is impossible to estimate the money loss to the people of the state for the care and treatment of preventable diseases," Dr. Collins continues. "Although I have been in office a comparatively short time, I am already greatly impressed with the fact that the state of Texas needs a larger number of hospital beds for the care of the sick, especially those suffering from communicable diseases. In 1913 the legislature enacted a county hospital law, which permits any county to construct a hospital for the care of its sick. To date but six counties in the state have taken advantage of this act. When we consider the number of communities without any hospital it is not surprising that there is such a large number of deaths from preventable diseases in Texas."

There is an urgent need for more counties to take advantage of this act and as Dr. Collins suggests, the question should be agitated by the county and city officials, members of medical societies, women's clubs, fraternal and labor organizations, the press and other agencies that are particularly interested in the promotion of the public weal. There is no more important problem before us than the conservation of health, and no society which permits its members to die needlessly in half-way discharging its duty to those members.

Senator Ransdell of Louisiana declares the navigation of our streams will do more to give the proper regulation to railroad rates than all of the state and interstate commissions that could be named. But will the senator please tell us how long it will take to make our streams navigable, judging by the progress made upon the Brazos, for instance? And, in case all the money for which the Rivers and Harbors association asks congress should be appropriated for all the streams of the country, if the additional taxes levied upon the ultimate consumer to make possible this navigation would not offset the reduced freight rates which these same ultimate consumers would enjoy?

Fort Worth is generally credited with being up-to-date, but in no respect is this truer than in her robberies. Two robbers accosted a jitney driver Wednesday, engaged him to drive them six miles east of the city, and when they arrived at a secluded spot on the road, they commanded him to halt his car, covered him with a gun, took the $6 he had collected in fares, then tied him to a fence post and ran away with his car. That may be the latest fashion in robbing, but we are hopeful that the fashion will not spread.

There has been no official ban placed upon social life in Germany yet, but the invitations to dinner bear this interesting suggestion "Bring your own bread."

CONSTRUCTIVE HELPFULNESS

With the sins of the Rockefellers the enemies of capital have for many years sought to acquaint us. And while we have never believed the Rockefellers and their associates to be near as black as their detractors—political and otherwise—have painted them, they have pursued courses at times which we did not believe were justified from high considerations.

But on the other hand, the Rockefellers have sought to accomplish large good with the vast wealth which they have accumulated and they have not only sought to accomplish this end, but they have succeeded. And through the instrumentalities of the Rockefeller Foundation, the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, the Board of Social Hygiene and other organizations financed by Rockefeller endowments the work that will be accomplished through various channels for the uplift and betterment of the human race will increase as the years go by.

There are those who seek to discredit the work that is being done by all these organizations, but only the narrow-minded, suspicious souls who see good only in themselves and bad only in those with whom they do not agree, will deny that great good is being accomplished. But many of the critics have been converted since the Rockefeller Foundation took a hand in relieving the distress in Belgium and Serbia.

In this work of relief the same business principles that have marked the conduct of the Standard Oil properties and other Rockefeller interests have been incorporated. For instance, one of the problems confronted in relieving the Belgian situation was to find something to do for the thousands of needy Belgian women in Holland. It was discovered by the relief commission, through which the Rockefeller Foundation did the bulk of its work, that in the great collection of clothes sent from America to relieve the Belgians very little underclothing had been included. This gave a suggestion for furnishing employment to the idle women of Belgium. Idleness was as great a misfortune for the people, almost, as the lack of clothes, so the relief commission decided to let some of the people occupy themselves by making their underclothes, the material being supplied them. From this the idea was obtained of letting them make underclothes for many who were not in a position to do the work themselves. Accordingly, a sewing department was established by the committee in charge of the concentration camp of Belgian refugees in the Uranium hotel in Rotterdam, containing a population of 750.

To quote an extra from a report on the accomplishments of this undertaking: "All the women in the camp were called together and asked as to their ability to use sewing machines, to sew by hand and to knit. They were also asked whether they would be willing to help manufacture underwear, not for their own use alone, but also for the use of other refugees. Their response was so prompt and genuine that the commission was the more encouraged to go forward with the experiment."

"A professional dressmaker from Brussels, herself a refugee, was engaged as supervisor of the first class, which was also under the supervision of a committee of Dutch ladies, including Madame Reuchlin, chairman, the Baroness van Eck and the Baroness van Gips, all Dutch women of The Hague and Rotterdam."

"Light, airy rooms were set aside for the sewing. Fifty women entered, and twelve sewing machines were installed along with other necessary equipment, such as scissors, needles, thread, buttons, cloth, etc. A supply of woolen yarn was provided for the women and girls who could not sew, but who could knit stockings."

"From the first the experiment was successful. The manager of the camp was enthusiastic over the better spirit which appeared among the women. Steadily, but with no great rapidity, new warm garments accumulated. Careful accounting was made for all goods provided. The scraps from cuttings were saved and groups of young girls and children were set to piecing quilts from them."

"This class in one week produced 459 articles of clothing, two-thirds of which were underdrawers and undershirts for men, and one-third assorted articles for women and children."

"The war relief commission undertook to finance the industry, paying the rent of the machines, the cost of materials and the wages of the forewomen. Later, at the urgent request of the Dutch minister of the interior a small bonus was given to each sewing woman who worked six hours per day for six days."

"When the Rotterdam experiment was in full operation the commission, in company with the American minister at The Hague, called upon the Dutch foreign minister and explained fully the industrial venture established in Rotterdam. He was much pleased and interested and asked whether the commission would be willing to extend its operations into other camps."

"The work was rapidly extended to all the eleven provinces of Holland. Thirty-four sewing classes in as many different places were established within a few months. By April 1 more than 5000 Belgian women and girls were thus working under competent supervision producing clothing needed by themselves and by their countrymen who had sought refuge in Holland."

"Upward of 500 sewing machines were in use on that date. In each camp in which a sewing department is established the camp management provides suitable quarters and gives protection to stocks of raw materials and finished products. In all this work careful business methods of accounting for expenditures, distribution of raw materials, checking up manufactured products, etc., are employed."

THE PLUTOCRAT AND OFFICE BOY.

J. Ogden Armour, head of possibly the most important industry in the world, possessor of a fortune of one or two hundred million dollars, born to great wealth and power, tells the industrial commission that the most important thing in his organization is the office boy, according to the Chicago Examiner.

He means that from the office boy develops the department head. He instanced the case of the general superintendent of the Armour plant, who began work in the yards at $1.75 a day.

Pessimists are fond of telling us that the day of opportunity has passed; that the growth of industries has ended the period of great rewards for diligence and intelligence, yet nearly all the men who are directing the operations of the big industries are chaps who rose from the ranks. Business is the greatest of republics. In spite of handicaps, in the face of obstacles, though between him and his goal are massed the other fellows with pull and family and education, somehow the man who knows what he wants and wants it hard enough wins to the big rosewood desk and the directors' room.

It's a long road and a hard road, and people are not busying themselves to make it easier, but it is a practical thoroughfare.

There was another feature of Mr. Armour's testimony that told of changes in the mind of the plutocrat as great as in the methods of big business.

It is not so many years ago—in the "public-be-damned" period, to be exact—when hostility to union labor was a prime article in the faith of the captains of industry. In those days, according to the creed of the big employer, every union man was an agitator if not an anarchist. That a workman had any right to share in the profits of business beyond the smallest wage he could be induced to accept was a bit of idealistic sentimentality unworthy the serious attention of any capitalist.

Mr. Armour is not an enthusiastic trades unionist even now, but his statement, "I know unions so well conducted that they are highly valuable," shows how far the education of employers at the hands of employees has progressed.

The admission that skilled labor should be organized, coming from the head of the great packing plants, is another tribute, even though it was coupled with a rueful reference to his experience with unions in the yards.

J. Ogden Armour on the witness stand showed himself as a student of modern industrial tendencies; he indicated a neat wit in his amiable fencing with the commissioners, and his optimistic forecast of the industrial prospects of the country was welcome.

Manager George H. Clifford of the North-Texas Traction company at Fort Worth, is one traction official who believes in taking the people into his confidence and he is utilizing the display space of the daily papers there to tell the people of Fort Worth how the jitney business is affecting the earnings of the traction company, which has spent many millions of dollars trying to advance Fort Worth. And we venture the opinion that the traction company will win lots of friends to its cause in so doing. The people like to be taken into the confidence of any interest or individual seeking a favor at their hands and when the issues are fairly and squarely presented to the people they can be relied upon to do the fair and square thing.

We guess it is a good thing for mere man to realize how cheap he really is, once in a while, but if we were the husband of Mrs. Charles J. Bruce of Canby, N. Y., we would resent so small a reward as $200 offered for our return in case we should disappear. We would almost as soon be in the position of the husband who carried $10,000 life insurance and when he died his wife wired to her parents, "Henry died this morning. Loss fully covered by insurance."

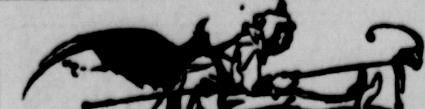

Texas will have one exhibit at the Panama-Pacific exposition that few states can boast of and that is a citizen 86 years old who journeyed 3000 miles, unaccompanied, to see the show. That man is E. Tom Cox, the "Sage of Bruceville," and he hails from McLennan. And we venture Mr. Cox will see everything at Frisco that is worth seeing for "his eye is not dimmed" and very little of "his natural force abated."

Capt. S. B. Burnett of Fort Worth, millionaire cattleman and treasurer of the Texas Cattle Raisers' association since its organization more than thirty years ago, has announced his intention of presenting the First Christian church of Fort Worth with a $12,000 pipe organ when the new $125,000 structure of that congregation is completed.

Sherman, which recently adopted the city manager form of government, is having difficulty in finding the right man for manager. As we have suggested frequently before, there is a chance for young men of ability to qualify as city managers by making a special study of the duties and work involved.

"When is a primary not a primary?" Mayor Brown and associates of San Antonio are asking. After having won out in last Monday's primary the mayor and those candidates for commissioners who were friendly to him find that they must face the same candidates in the regular city election on May 14.

A Dallas pastor claims that the concerted Baptist revival meetings in that city during the past few weeks are responsible for checking the crime wave there.

STAY-AT-HOMES.
Home serves many important purposes but none more so than that of affording something for the real people to stay at while the other kind are gadding about in search of rest, recreation and other popular illusions.

If it were not for the stay-at-homes everybody would be at the resorts, at a cost so enormous that the nation would be bankrupted. Their part in life, namely the part of preserving the economic balance, is, in other words, solid if not showy.

Some stay at home because they can't get away, but numbers because they choose to do so, showing that while the fools are not all dead yet, neither are the wise guys.

In short, whereas the meek are blessed because they shall inherit the earth, the stay-at-homes are blessed for a variety of reasons, any one of which is sufficient to justify the fact.

King Solomon was an early and distinguished stay-at-home. "Riches," he remarks, with a significant air of depression (Proverbs 23:5), "certainly make themselves wings." While the fact that he had one thousand wives by no means argues, owing to the difference in the customs of those days, that he got one thousand letters a day from the seashore asking for money, the inference is nevertheless irresistible.

FROM A RECENT OBITUARY.

The late Luther G. Petty was an unassuming gentleman with whom comparatively few of our citizens were intimately acquainted although he had lived in our midst for many years. He was the husband of Mrs. Harriet McK. Bronkhorst-Petty, the prominent society leader and Eminent Exalted Potentate of the Dignified Daughters of Shays' Rebellion and Past Supreme Sovereign of the Sisters of Sheba: Mother of the Hon. Braxton McK. Bronkhorst-Petty, who although he was admitted to the bar only last week has already consented to run for the office of prosecuting attorney at the earnest solicitation of his many friends; and of Delicia McK. Bronkhorst-Petty, for whom her teachers predict a brilliant career on the opera stage. Mrs. Bronkhorst-Petty is a descendant of two fine old families, the McKuckles and the Bronkhorsts, and has never failed to live up to the high traditions of her illustrious ancestors.

Mr. Petty loved solitude, and was given to long rambles in the woods, and it is believed that he expired from heart failure some three or four days before his body was accidentally discovered.

"Yes; I made the mistake of trying to eliminate by means of grape-juice diplomacy. Be bought champagne."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Would Close Uptown Houses Also.
To the Waco Morning News:

In regard to the letter in Sunday's News, written by W. C. Chatterton of Granger, Tex., pleading for his good friend, Mayor Riggins, and the commission to abolish the reservation, I don't think Mr. Chatterton is familiar with the new method of closing the reservation, that is, to starve them out by allowing houses of ill fame to operate on our main business streets, and allow the inmates of these houses to work the streets and picture shows, and rope in the men before they can reach the reservation and spend their money. Under this method the reservation can't exist much longer. The writer is in favor of abolishing the reservation and would vote for it to be closed up entirely, if our officers would enforce the law and put a stop to the street walkers. If they allow this to continue it will not be safe for our wives and daughters to go to the picture shows alone, or they will be insulted by seeing and hearing these women making dates with men, sitting in the show. If our men do not believe my statements, if he will take an evening off and observe what goes on around these shows and on the streets of Waco, he will find I am right. I suggest he might look into this matter before he makes an effort to close the reservation. If we are going to abolish the reservation, start uptown first, where these women claim they are on the inside of the law, whatever that means.

The costumer came forward to attend to the nervous old bean who was mopping his bald and shining poll with a big silk handkerchief.

"And what can I do for you?" he asked.
"I want a little help in the way of a suggestion," said the old fellow. "I intend going to the French students' masquerade ball tonight, and I want a distinctly original costume—something I may be sure no one else will wear. What would you suggest?"

The costumer looked him over attentively, bestowing special notice on the gleaming nob.
"Well, I'll tell you," he said, then, thoughtfully, "why don't you sugar your head and go as a pill?"—Tit-Bits.

Blood Risings Begin A Mere Speck

Stop Them From Growing Large and Dangerous.

Nearly everyone who uses S. S. S. for the blood recalls a friend who went through untold suffering as the result of a mere pimple or small blood rising. A host of people did not realize, until too late, what may result from a slight skin abrasion. But they recovered if they used S. S. S. and in almost every village and hamlet, every crossroad and away back of the road is someone who will tell you how S. S. S. the famous blood purifier, restored his health.

It is a most interesting fact that this remarkable vegetable medicine overhauls the blood in a manner that excites curious minds.

But it acts in accordance with accepted physiological laws and yet its effect is almost beyond comprehension to those who are wedded to such drugs as mercury, calomel, arsenic, iodine of potassium, copper and other harmful influences which all the world bears silent testimony to their destructive tendencies.

S. S. S. is indeed a nature's tribute to what we need and it is worthy of note that in almost any drug store throughout the country you will find it regularly in stock. Get a bottle today. ## TO MERGE TELEPHONE EXCHANGE AT MARLIN

TEXAS TELEPHONE CO. ANNOUNCES PURCHASE OF SOUTHWESTERN LINES.

WILL BUY OTHER BELL LINES

Consolidation Will Be Effected by Monday Night—Officials Here Say Will Save People Money.

The Texas Telephone company with headquarters in Waco announced yesterday afternoon to its subscribers in Marlin that the consolidation of the two telephone exchanges in that city would be completed not later than Monday night. The exchange operated in Marlin by the Southwestern Telegraph and Telephone company has been purchased by the Texas Telephone company, and the subscribers of the Southwestern company are to be taken over by the Independent exchange.

The consolidation of the two telephone plants in Marlin was authorized by that city in November, 1914, and the terms of the consolidation are similar in many ways to the terms of the Waco consolidation ordinance passed last year. The residence telephone rate in Marlin remains at $2 a month, and the business rate is increased after the consolidation from $3 to $3.50. An official of the Texas Telephone company is authority for the statement that 105 duplicate business telephones and 32 duplicate residence telephones will be eliminated, resulting in a net saving to the telephone users of Marlin of $310 a month, after deducting the increased charge on the business telephones.

The toll lines of the Southwestern company will be connected with the Texas exchange in Marlin, giving the patrons of the consolidated exchange access to the long distance lines of both companies.

"The Marlin consolidation," stated an official of the Texas Telephone company last night, "is the beginning of the consummation of similar mergers in a number of towns near Waco, including Ennis, Meridian, Clifton, Walnut Springs, and, of course, at Waco. Conditions at Marlin as to equipment, plant and so on were such that it was comparatively easy to work the two plants together, as we had sufficient switchboard capacity there to handle all the telephones of the other company. A longer time for the completion of the work is necessary, of course, where we have to install entirely new equipment and considerable new outside plant, as we are having to do in Waco. Now that the work is started, however, the company expects to push it through at all the places named with as little delay as possible."

General Superintendent H. E. Kepler of the Texas Telephone company is in personal charge of the work at Marlin, assisted by Chief Engineer Will Green, Traffic Superintendent H. B. Wagner and a crew of about thirty switchboard and cable men.

The Real Cause of Most Bad Complexions

It is a stern fact that no truly beautiful complexion ever came out of jars or bottles; the longer one uses cosmetics the worse the complexion becomes. Skin, to be healthy, must breathe. It also must exude, through the pores, its share of the body's effete material. Creams and powders clog the pores, interfering both with elimination and breathing. If more women understood this, there would be fewer self-ruined complexions. If they would use ordinary mercurized wax instead of cosmetics they would have natural, healthy complexions. This remarkable substance actually absorbs a bad skin, unclogging the pores, Result: The fresher, younger underskin is permitted to breathe and to show itself. An exquisite new complexion gradually peeps out, one free from any appearance of artificiality. Get an ounce of mercurized wax at your druggists and try it. Apply nightly like cold cream, for a week or so, washing it off mornings. To eradicate wrinkles, here's a marvellously effective treatment which also acts naturally and harmlessly. Dissolve 1 oz. powdered saxolite in one-half pint witch hazel and use as a wash lotion.

"Graustark."

"Graustark," six act Essanay picture-tization of the famous novel by Geo. Barr McCutcheon, with Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne in the leading roles, programmed at the Hippodrome today and tomorrow, is the first offering by the Essanay company in conjunction with Vitagraph, Lubin and Selig, in the new "old masters" program, offering motion picture patrons for the first time in the history of this oldest organization of manufacturers a series of pictures that have never been equalled in the annals of moving picture history.

Most everybody has read "Graustark," and knows the fascinating and compelling qualities of the Prince and Princess, both Americans who became king and queen in a land of fantasy.

There is no company whose steady forward progress in both technical and artistic directions has been more clearly marked than Essanay. Year after year this famous firm has been adding to its technical equipment and increasing its artistic facility, until now its output has a general excellence surpassed by none and approached by few. One of the oldest producing companies in America, its success has its foundation in a record of long, earnest and unflinching endeavor. This basis of solid hard work and carefully fostered talent has come to be relied upon by all who know Essanay as a guarantee of unvarying merit throughout all its productions.

With a company which maintains so consistently high a standard it is hard to single out any one piece of work for particular praise, although of course, there must be inevitable fluctuations in the interest of subject matter if not in the skill of treatment. Without wishing to emphasize its importance unduly at the expense of past performances, however, we must confess that we have seldom seen an Essanay program quite comparable for general excellence with that which was exhibited by them last week. We do not think we exaggerate when we say that every film in this particular group is of its kind a "star" production. It is as remarkable a collection of pictures as we remember to have seen and not the least of its merits is contained in the infinite variety which the Essanay company always manages to maintain with so much success as one of the pleasantest qualities of their regular work.

It is obvious that such a play as "Graustark" must be unusually well done if it is to be successful, and it can be said with complete honesty that Essanay has seldom, if ever, made a better film from an artistic viewpoint. The story grips one throughout by its extraordinary vivid characterization. It is as convincing as life, and in no place in its acute realism is marred by a falsity of sentiment or of characters, or even of setting. As an instance of the graphic force with which it is presented it may be mentioned that the story is told with perfect clarity and intelligibility almost without a subtitle throughout the two reels—and this in spite of the fact that the plot contains a good deal of action and is planned on a somewhat elaborate scale.

QUEEN.

Hazel Dawn in "Niobe," Today and Tomorrow.

Imagine a beautiful statue coming to life in the home of an insurance magnate and his efforts to explain her appearance to his wife and you have some idea of the plot neatly worked out in the Famous Players comedy, "Niobe," to be shown at the Queen today and tomorrow. Miss Hazel Dawn takes the part of the statue.

The story goes that the statue has been left with the insurance company. For safe keeping the president of the company takes the heavily insured statue to his home. He sits in his chair and watches electricians coil some wires about the pedestal in rewiring his home. He goes to sleep and dreams that the electricity has given life to "Niobe," who runs here and there to his dismay and the indignation of his wife. He wakes up, however, to find that it was all a dream.

Miss Dawn has recently starred in "The Debutante," and also has appeared in the Famous Players produc-

Francis X. Bushman, Who is to be Featured in "Graustark," at the Hippodrome Today and Tomorrow.

SENATOR NUGENT PROPOSES TO REPEAL ROBERTSON INSURANCE LAW AGAINST REPEAL

Strong Indictment of the Big Insurance Companies Which Left the State Rather Than Comply With a Just Law—Insultingly Propose to Return if the People of Texas Humble Themselves Sufficiently.

Senator Nugent of Conroe, Texas, is out in an address to the senate of Texas, protesting against the Gibson bill or any other measure designed to destroy the good effects of the Robertson insurance law.

Senator Nugent's address in full follows:

To the Senate of Texas:

The question as to whether or not the legislature of the great and imperial state of Texas should repeal or even materially amend the Robertson insurance law, thereby taking a long step backward in the matter of protecting the rights and interests of the people of this state, affecting so much, as such a step would, the welfare, honor and dignity of our state and her people, that the more we investigate the proposition and look for reasons why this should be done, the more convinced we become that it should not be done.

This is not a matter to be determined by the governor, but by the two houses of the legislature alone.

It is not a question of enacting a new law for the protection of the material interests of our people, that will require the sanction of the executive, but rather the refusal by the legislature to either impair or destroy one of the most wholesome laws placed upon our statute books in a generation.

I yield to no man in Texas, not even to the blindest partisan or most partial friend of Governor Ferguson in my anxiety and zeal to see him make one of the greatest governors that Texas has ever had, and no man in Texas desires more than I do the greatest measure of success for his administration, and if I occupied a position of intimacy with him, or felt that I could influence him, I would pray with him day and night for a week to dissuade him from his indicated purpose to endeavor to influence the legislature to repeal the Robertson insurance law, or even to submit the question at the approaching special session.

Governor Ferguson says that he is willing to assume the responsibility for the passage of the Gibson bill, and to risk the seventeen expropriated companies investing $29,250,000 in Texas at 6 per cent net, within the next five years.

That is a responsibility that rests solely with the legislature, and one which the governor can not assume, or of which he could relieve the legislature.

The executive is but one of the three co-ordinate branches of our state government. He has his responsibilities which the legislature can not assume, and the legislative branch has its responsibilities which he could not assume if he would.

It is both wise and admirable of Governor Ferguson to exhibit a most friendly attitude toward foreign capital, and I know that the legislature will heartily, actively and promptly co-operate with him in the passage of such laws that will throw around capital, from whatever state or foreign country coming to Texas, the greatest possible encouragement and protection, consistent with wisdom and the welfare of our people, whom alone we are to serve, but in attempting to invite the honest and well meaning guest into our homes we must be careful not to admit the outlaw, the road agent or the burglar to plunder and despoil us.

Freely From Money Trust.

Until the revision of our currency system and the establishment of the regional banking arrangement of the federal government under our present wise and democratic national administration, Wall street had the iron grasp of its hand so completely upon the throat of the business and commerce of this country, that a half dozen kings of finance of that narrow and crooked street could assemble around a council table in the office of J. Pierpont Morgan, and by their decree over night paralyze the business of the country and send a sickening chill down the spine of every industry, bank and business house, and cast a pall of gloom over this country from Maine to Texas, and from New York to San Francisco.

Why has that been so? Because for a hundred years Wall street has exploited this country. Wall street did not produce a dollar, nor did she create one cent of the wealth of this country, but as a result of systems of financing, peculiarly her own, backed by brains and experience, and prompted by avarice and greed, she gathered in the shelds from every state in this union, and since this has been a nation its people have constantly produced great wealth and sent it to Wall street in streams, and the difference in Wall street's favor between what she received from the country and what she returned has widened day by day, resulting in a colossal power unequalled in the history of finance.

It has been largely a question of brains between the capitalists of finance of Wall street on the one side and the people of other states and the law makers of those states and of the nation on the other, and we must admit that New York has had the better of it. The same principles and policies have been involved in the relation of the people of Texas and the great life insurance companies of the east, who for so long fattened on us.

Texas has been and is now a state of great production of wealth, and of boundless resources, developed and undeveloped.

Drained of Millions.

Prior to the enactment of the Robertson insurance law in 1907, the retired insurance companies had taken out of Texas $68,662,913.42 in premiums for life insurance and had paid back into Texas only $22,449,408.89, a difference in the companies' favor of $46,213,504.53, yet these companies who retired from Texas rather than comply with our laws, had invested in Texas in real estate mortgage loans less than a million dollars.

We are without data as to what amount the retiring companies now have invested in Texas securities, because while they have taken about forty million dollars in premiums out of Texas in the last seven years, they have not extended Texas the courtesy to make any reports to our insurance department.

Twenty-one of the large companies left Texas in a body upon the enactment of the Robertson insurance law, not that the provisions of that law were unfair to foreign investors, but because Texas was not a rich field for them, but because the provisions of the law were designed for, and were favorable to, the interests of the people of Texas and sought to keep in Texas a part at least of what Texas produced, instead of continuing to send our money, the proceeds of our cotton, grain, cattle, lumber and oil, to Wall street to further enrich the cormorants who thought to bring us to their feet when they left.

Belong to Money Trust.

Those companies were parts and parcels of the money system or money trust of the east, and they rebel since the breaking, impairing or reducing the money stream from Texas to New York. I have no quarrel to make with those gentlemen. If they could be persuaded to put one over us, let them do it, but when they do, it will be the members of the Texas legislature and not the governor of this state who will be responsible to an outraged people for the maintenance of the preservation of the Robertson insurance law a system that will keep in Texas as nearly as may be possible, that which is produced in Texas, and in a few years those great insurance companies will be falling over themselves to come back on our terms, which are, and shall always be, just, fair and reasonable.

Of the twenty-one companies that retired from Texas rather than obey our wholesome, wise and just laws, two returned, paid up all back or delinquent taxes, and have ever since paid our gross receipts taxes on the business they have done, and otherwise complied with our laws and have prospered.

Want to Return to the Feast.

Do not be deceived into believing that the retired companies now anxious to return to Texas are prompted by any patriotic purpose to aid Texas or her people, but rather want to return to feast again upon the resources of Texas and her people, and to proceed to the fruits of a prosperity that they have refused to help to create, but which they systematically and despoiledly attempted to impair, if not paralyze or destroy, and now, since the people of Texas have, in spite of their efforts, prospered and grown in wealth and happiness, those same arrogant life insurance companies who scoffed at our laws, and with contempt left us, now have the brazen effrontery, through one of their number, to say:

"If the Gibson bill now pending shall become a law, this company will regard it as an invitation to return to Texas for both the writing of insurance and the making of investments, and will be glad to do so without unnecessary delay and to proceed to the fruits of a prosperity that they have refused to help to create, but which they systematically and despoiledly attempted to impair, if not paralyze or destroy, and now, since the people of Texas have, in spite of their efforts, prospered and grown in wealth and happiness, those same arrogant life insurance companies who scoffed at our laws, and with contempt left us, now have the brazen effrontery, through one of their number, to say:

middlemen. This telegram is confirmed by mail."

An Insult to People.

A man does not have to be a lawyer to understand that as a legal promise to do anything, the foregoing proposition pleaded in a court against the life insurance companies would not be based on general demerit. Governor Ferguson ought to have considered the telegram an insult to his intelligence and business acumen, as well as to that of the people of Texas. It is an evasion of every essential element of a promise to do anything.

Joker in Gibson Bill.

The definition of Texas securities in the Gibson bill is a greater joke and farce even than the famous and infamous telegram above set out as the proposition (?) of the insurance companies, written by Judge Locke, counsel for the insurance companies, who is also the admitted author of the Gibson bill.

Section 3 of the Gibson bill reads as follows:

"The phrase, 'Texas securities,' as hereinafter used, shall be held to include to the extent the same may be lawfully owned and treated as a part of the legal reserve, Texas real estate, and personal property situated in Texas, and policy contracts of Texas policyholders, and the bonds, stocks, notes or other evidences of indebtedness of individuals, firms, or public or private corporations domiciled in Texas, and all securities directly and exclusively based upon such real estate, personal property, bonds, stocks, notes or other evidences of indebtedness."

That would include Texas railroad stocks and bonds, which could be picked up on Wall street, New York, which find their birth in New York, and have no more connection with real and actual Texas securities than have the stocks and bonds of the Oregon Short Line, the Northern Pacific or the Michigan Central.

Texas Should Resent the Insult.

The fifty-eight life insurance companies now operating in Texas under existing laws are investing now in Texas at the rate of more than $10,000 a year, and it is conservatively estimated that they will invest in Texas during the next five years at least $75,000,000. THESE INVESTMENTS ARE COMPULSORY AND ENFORCEABLE UNDER THE LAW, whereas, the self-outwitted companies, who, in seven years, have taken $40,000,000 out of Texas, while refusing to come back and obey our laws, now come to us and say in substance: "Get down on your knees, lick our hands and reveal your laws for us, so that we may come back on our own terms and exploit you, and subject to a half dozen or more conditions, if we feel like it, we may invest in five years, $23,500,000 in Texas securities, 75 per cent or more of which may be railroad bonds in New York—less than $6,000,000 per annum." Only four of the New York companies now have loans in New York alone $458,000,000, with $15,000,000 loaned in Canada and other foreign countries.

The annual investment of foreign capital in Texas is $25,444,000. What will we profit by the doubtful promise of loans or investments of less than $6,000,000 per annum, if we send out of Texas to those companies $10,000,000 or more per annum, which we have to pay out of Texas securities, if we pass the Gibson bill, or any similar measure?

Fifteen southern states paid for life insurance during the year 1914 alone $1,000,000, or 9 per cent of the value of our entire cotton crop of those states, was sent to eastern companies. On account of the beneficent results of our Texas insurance laws, and the splendid enterprise and brains of Texas, with our own solid and safe Texas home companies, that offer as safe insurance as do the great eastern companies, Texas stands unique among those fifteen states by having paid to southern companies $1,325,000 more than she paid to northern or eastern companies.

Keep Our Money at Home.

The fifty-eight companies, forty foreign and eighteen home, writing insurance in the state of Texas at the rate of about $125,000,000 a year, which is about double the amount that was being written in the state before 1907, Robertson law was passed in 1907.

Texas companies are writing more than two-thirds of this business. In 1905 the Texas companies had only 2 per cent of the total insurance business of the state.

Under the provisions of the Robertson law foreign insurance companies are required to invest in Texas only about 50 per cent of their Texas premiums, where we offer the best and safest security on earth, in a country that is in its infancy of development, where land values always rapidly enhance and never depreciate, and where every year we produce sufficient money to repay every dollar borrowed that year from every other state in this Union, and from every foreign country in the world, that builds every railroad, every industrial enterprise and every skyscraper in Texas. Why should we subscribe to a policy that will send that money out of Texas?

Retired Companies Ungrateful.

When the twenty-one large life insurance companies left Texas rather than obey our laws, or give us fair play, they acted in concert, and with the purpose to whip Texas into the continuance of a policy that robbed Texas of their constant energy and genius, and they lend us cheap money on Texas lands to enable the homeless farmer to own a home? Did they lend cheap money to the planter to develop his plantation or his ranch? No. They kept 75 per cent of that money loaned on Manhattan Island, and the greater part of the other 25 per cent in Canada or other foreign countries, and abused Texas unfriendly to us with every skyncraper in Texas. Why should we subscribe to a policy that will send that money out of Texas?

When the city of Dallas wanted to sell $875,000 of 4 per cent bonds, sound and desirable as an investment, what W. A. Day, vice president of J. Pierpont Morgan's life insurance company, the Equitable Life Assurance society of New York, had to say:

"The Hon. John L. Young, County Judge of Dallas County, Dallas, Tex.: My Dear Sir—I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your letter in which, in behalf of Dallas county, your offer for sale county bonds, I have read with great interest what you say respecting the bonds, as well as the financial statement of Dallas county. I have no doubt of the soundness of these securities and their desirability as an investment."

"We should be very glad to buy the bonds, but as under the extraordinary laws of Texas, enacted and approved by the present administration of your state, this society, together with nearly all other strong and reputable life insurance companies which had been doing business in Texas, was compelled to retire from the state, we cannot invest in Texas securities, nor can we loan money in that state without jeopardy. For this reason we cannot become bidders for the attractive bonds you submitted to us."

Respectfully yours,

"W. A. Day, Vice Pres."

The Equitable Life Assurance society of New York was one of the big twenty-one who defied us and left Texas, with their offices and agents, but who, nevertheless, have for seven years regularly taken premiums out of Texas on policies that they had formerly written, at the rate of over $6,000,000 a year and on which they have refused even to pay a cent of tax, while those who remained, together with our home companies, have helped the citizens of Texas to bear the burden of the government.

Our Faithful Friends.

Yes, the foreign companies who remained with us, and the Texas home companies, permitted and enabled under the provisions of the Robertson insurance law to organize, to live and to prosper, and to do so, and to pride in Texas, have for seven years cheerfully paid their taxes and contributed to the expense of the state government, thereby lightening the burden on the back of the individual companies, while the seventeen retired companies have maintained their offices outside of Texas, taking from our people $40,000,000 in good money and refusing to invest that money in Texas, to aid us in developing our great resources, or to pay one cent of taxes lawfully accrued under our laws on that business.

If the retired companies return to Texas, will they in good faith invest in or lend money on Texas real estate mortgages or Texas state, county, municipal or district bonds in any considerable sum? If so, why repeal laws requiring them to do this?

As so clearly and correctly said by Jesse Jones of Houston, one of the greatest and fairest financiers of Texas:

"Insurance companies now doing business in Texas are investing, I am told, in the neighborhood of $10,000,000 a year in our securities, which amount will rapidly increase, and these investments are largely in real estate loans, at very fair rates of interest. Therefore, it is not good business to hazard or jeopardize any considerable portion of that of which we are so nobly assured for the promise of a few extra millions from companies not now doing business in Texas."

"The companies which withdrew from the state are greatly interested in the passage of the bill, and I understand promise the governor that they will invest substantial amounts of money in Texas securities if the law is changed."

Why, then, if they really intend to make such investments, and to make them as time goes on, should our statutes not only provide for these investments, but require them?

And why should the insurance companies object to such provision in the law?

Managements change, and the disposition of the present managers may change.

Our legislature should therefore provide against such contingencies by keeping on our statute books laws compelling these investments.

Mr. Jones and I are not agreed on the proposition of disposing of the matter of taxes which the seventeen retired companies owe Texas. He indicates a suggestion to settle that on a compromise basis. However, he suggests no basis.

Would Not Waive a Dollar.

The retired companies would have us waive their taxes in terms of the Robertson bill, or they would have Texas accept taxes for one year only, and waive those for six years. I would not waive a dollar. If they owe Texas taxes for one year, they owe us for one year, and Texas is not so poor or impetuous that she should want or accept that which does not rightfully belong to her, nor is she so servile or supine that she will not fight in the courts for that which is hers.

If a citizen or corporation tax payer resident in Texas, owes Texas a dollar of taxes, we will enforce payment.

If a farmer or a merchant, or a mechanic, a banker or manufacturer, a professional man or a working man, refuses to pay his taxes to the last farthing, we will seize his property, sell his home to make him pay those taxes, but the arrogant retired insurance companies who for twenty years enriched themselves on our people, would have us waive their six or seven years' taxes, thereby imposing still heavier burdens on our citizen taxpayers and take them back on their own terms to again ply their policy of seizure, plunder and at the same time thereby penalize our home companies, and the foreign companies who have complied with our laws, paid their taxes and built up great enterprises in Texas, and are becoming important factors in the great economic system of our state.

Should Not Lick Hand That Smote Us.

The retired companies would now come back, supported and strengthened in the east by their millions that they have selfishly filched from us free, and again take over the rich field that they see is maintaining the companies that have borne the burdens of establishment, have complied with our laws, and are of service to the people of Texas as safe insurance as could the great eastern institutions. They are now lending and investing in Texas under the provisions of the Robertson law about twice as much money as the retired companies conditionally, vaguely and indefinitely promise that they will use their best endeavor to invest, everything is just right and satisfactory to them, and in accordance with their rules and standards.

If our home companies can prosper and grow under the provisions of our present insurance laws, and they do, why should we cravenly bow to those who voluntarily left us, refusing to obey our laws, or why should we lick the hand that smote us?

Remember the Dallas Bonds and the Day Letter!

We should refuse to make the slightest

WOMAN REFUSES OPERATION

Tells How She Was Saved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Logansport, Ind.—"My baby was over a year old and I bloated till I was a burden to myself. I suffered from female trouble so I could not stand on my feet and I felt like millions of needles were pricking me all over. At last my doctor told me that all that would save me was an operation, but this I refused. I told my husband to get me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I would try it before I would submit to any operation. He did so and I improved right along. I am now doing all my work and feeling fine."

"I hope other suffering women will try your Compound. I will recommend it to all I know."—Mrs. DANIEL D. B. DAVIS, 110 Franklin St., Logansport, Ind.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, it is not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering in a like manner?

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (Confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

SHRAPNEL MAKING INTO STATE COURT

UNUSUAL CASE TO BE DECIDED IN WISCONSIN AS RESULT OF WAR.

NEUTRALITY IS MENTIONED

Citizen of United States Would Prevent by Law Manufacture of Ammunition.

Milwaukee, April 29.—A complaint was filed today under the so-called "discovery" statute of Wisconsin to obtain information to determine if the Allis-Chalmers company, a corporation, Otto Falk, its president, and others have entered into a conspiracy with the Bethlehem Steel company and others not yet known, to manufacture and ship shrapnel shells to European belligerents, contrary to the Wisconsin law.

The action, service in which was obtained tonight, calls for the appearance of Mr. Falk and the other defendants before the circuit court commissioner in Milwaukee, May 6, for preliminary action before pleading as provided for by the discovery statute proceedings. Mr. Falk is cited to appear and bring with him all leaders, contracts, correspondence and agreements between the Allis-Chalmers company and the Bethlehem Steel company.

The complaint was filed by Samuel Pearson, who declares he is a citizen of the United States and that he has valuable property interests located within the boundaries of the German empire and is owner of securities issued by the German government, and he avers that the defendants prior to the European war were engaged in the manufacture of peaceful instruments of art and industry and that the manufacture of shrapnel was engaged in only after the war started and is to continue only during the actual continuance of the war.

The complaint states that one type of ammunition indispensable to the belligerents is a projectile known as the shrapnel shell, designed but for one purpose, the destruction of human life and property and that the intent of the war now being conducted against the German empire is to cripple the said empire by the destruction of the lives of its citizens and its property, both public and private.

Mention of President Wilson's neutrality proclamation is made and certain federal statutes are cited, violations of which it is contended constitute breaches of neutrality and submit the offender to criminal prosecution for "high crimes and misdemeanors."

12th Commencement Central Texas College Begins Next Sunday

Oratorical Contest Tonight—Program for Exercises Is Announced.

Prefacing the commencement exercises incident to the closing of the twelfth annual session of Central Texas college on North Sixth street, which will begin Sunday, May 2, and continue through Thursday, May 6, there will be an oratorical contest at the college tonight at 8 o'clock.

Concerning the work of the year and the plans for the commencement, President J. W. Strong has sent out the following announcement:

"Central Texas college closes its twelfth annual session on the 6th of May. We cordially invite our white friends, as well as our own people, to attend the commencement exercises. "There will be graduating classes both from the normal and the college departments. We feel sure that you will enjoy these exercises. The classes, on the whole, have done good work. Indeed, it is the aim and purpose of the institution to do well and thorough its work. We hope you will come out and examine the work of the industrial departments. The young people have, in our judgment, done splendid work in these departments, and deserve great credit. The blacksmithing department has done creditable work under the management of E. V. Kneeland. He is a splendid instructor, a practical teacher and has handled well that department. We may, however, say as much for each department of the institution. Notwithstanding the financial condition, the work of the season has been a brilliant success. "The public is cordially invited to attend all of the exercises of the institution."

The general program is announced as follows:

Friday, April 30, 8 p. m., oratorical contest.

Sunday, May 2, 11:30 a. m., baccalaureate sermon, President J. W. Strong, D. D.

Sunday, May 2, 2:30 p. m., B. Y. P. U. anniversary.

Monday, May 3, 9 a. m. to 3 p. m., oral examinations. Industrial exhibition.

Monday, May 3, 8:30 p. m., alumni anniversary.

Tuesday, May 4, 9 a. m. to 3 p. m., oral examinations. Industrial exhibition.

Tuesday, May 4, 8:30 p. m., comedy, "Merchant of Venice."

Wednesday, May 5, 9 a. m. to 3 p. m., industrial exhibition.

Wednesday, May 5, 8 p. m., popular lecture.

Thursday, May 6, 10 a. m., graduating exercises of the normal and college departments.

Thursday, May 6, 8:30 p. m., operetta in two acts, "Sylvia."

ROOSEVELT FINALLY IS EXCUSED FROM THE WITNESS STAND

"Now, for the Tennessee Coal and Iron and the United States Steel corporation." "When the merger took place, I understood the Tennessee was so weak that the Steel corporation didn't consider it a dangerous competitor. The corporation controlled about 60 per cent of the output. The Tennessee had 1 9-10 per cent of total output. Subsequently the output of the Steel corporation shrank to 54 per cent. The action occurred during the height of the panic of 1907. The prime interests of every citizen was that some measure should be taken to stop the panic and restore confidence. In New York the situation was trembling on a hair as to whether every business would have to be shut up. One night I received notice that next day Mr. Frick and Mr. Cary of the Steel corporation would come to see me. I had received thousands of appeals to do something."

In reply to questions the colonel then said: "I always consulted Mr. Platt about appointing judges. I disregarded his advice on judges, however, more than I did on anything else. Some of the judges I appointed I knew personally. On others I had the recommendation of men I knew or bar associations. In appointments to high courts I always knew the man or knew all about him."

"While you were governor or president was there any invisible government on your part?"

"There was not one particle," replied the colonel with great emphasis.

Questions About Whitman. Questions concerning the Whitman letter virtually ended the redirect examination of the witness. Counsel for Mr. Barnes immediately began a brief re-cross-examination and after a few questions the colonel was excused. Phillip V. L. Schuyler of New York, an employee in the law department of the Mutual Life Insurance company, then was called. Papers he carried were marked as an exhibit and a recess taken.

At the afternoon session, after Schuyler was excused, George B. Agnew of New York, was called. He said he was a state senator from 1907 to 1910, and told of introducing bills during these years regarding the race track question.

"Some of the measures were to prevent gambling," said the former senator, who then told conversations relating to the racing bills which he had with former Senator Grattan of Albany. The witness continued: "Senator Grattan promised to support one bill before it came up. On the day the bill came up I saw Mr.

Barnes at his home. I told him his senator, Grattan, had come to me and told me he had changed his mind about favoring the bill. I asked Mr. Barnes whether he understood the seriousness of making Senator Grattan change his decision. Mr. Barnes said he thought it was good politics to have Senator Grattan vote against the bill. I told Mr. Barnes that Grattan was very anxious to vote in favor of the bill."

"Later in the day the bill was voted on. Senator Grattan voted against the measure. The vote was 25 to 25. Twenty-six would have passed it."

On re-direct examination the witness said he told Mr. Barnes at the time the racing bill was defeated that he had always stood up for him, but that as he had broken his word he was through.

Wm. Loeb, Jr., private secretary to Colonel Roosevelt, while he was president, was the next witness. Objections by the plaintiff regarding "co-versations in 1906 and 1907 with the plaintiff as regards his position in the republican party and municipal affairs in Albany," brought forth a statement that the defense intended to show by Mr. Loeb that the plaintiff spoke of combinations with the democrats.

Colonel Roosevelt's counsel argued further that it was intended to show that the plaintiff was acquainted with gambling and vice in Albany and that the organization was in control of the city.

"As to Albany there is nothing to show Mr. Barnes had anything to do with conditions there," declared Mr. Lyons.

Whitman Declines to Comment. Albany, N. Y., April 29.—Governor Whitman declined tonight to make any comment on the letter introduced at the Barnes-Roosevelt libel suit trial in Syracuse.

NAVS. CONTINUE TO MARCH UPWARD

WITH SEEMING EASE, DEFEAT LEIDY'S EX-SOUTHERN LEAGUERS.

HATTON OGLE IN GOOD FORM

Malmquist Knocks Home Run in the First Inning with Hickey on First.

Relentlessly crushing every threatened attempt that was made against them, playing with steadiness that within itself was deadly, the Navigators continued their steady march penantward yesterday afternoon when they outclassed Cap Leidy's disguised Southern leaguers 4 to 1.

Having, by slow but sure improvement, reached the form that marked them as the team of 1914 with the greatest physical strength, tremendous endurance and heartless determination, Hardy's crew is daily demonstrating that to the navy is sure to come victory, despite sensational spurts of those more erratic.

With Hatton Ogle pitching great ball, the win seemed to be without great effort on the part of the local machine. Davenport, a really classy youngster of elongated proportions, served for Cap Leidy's Nags and had a world of stuff, but he was pitted against a piece of mechanism composed of perfect individual parts, so far as their yesterday's work was concerned, and many a more experienced pitcher might have suffered worse.

Leidy's crew did not look quite so classy. In spite of the fact that an occasional display of the stuff that sent the individuals to higher company, and in some cases kept them there for considerable lengths of time, but there was not the drive that characterized the play of the local club.

Malmquist Wins Game.

Malmquist for Waco won the game in the first inning when he put the ball over the left-field fence. Hickey on first base. Later the Navigators put two more across, but they were not needed, for a home run by Barr gave San Antonio the only run the club could register. Hyder raked the sphere well into the air and it sailed over considerable territory before landing in the street behind the park. Snedcor immediately followed with a single and a stolen base in that inning, but no further run-getting was indulged in by San Antonio.

Malmquist's homer was of a different variety to that of Barr. Waco's second baseman lined his to the exact top of the boards and it struck right into the air and dropped between the fence and a sign attached to the boards. It traveled on a line and would have gone into the next block had the fence not stopped it. In the first inning, Hickey, who was fumbled and Hickey went safe. Shortstop Bagan got a hit, but it went for naught. In Waco's first, Tanner hit through second and was out trying to steal. Hickey immediately followed with a single exactly over second base. Malmquist lined his home run to the fence and over for two runs. James and Drennan were easy outs.

With one out, Barr put the ball over the fence near the same place. Malmquist chose, in the second, but his was high and Hickey could have fielded it had the fence been further back.

In the sixth, for Waco, Hickey sent one at Balenti which the shortstop fumbled and Hickey went safe. Shortstop Bagan sacrificed. James drove one cleanly through short, scoring Hickey. Barr stumbled as he picked up the ball. James started too soon to second and as Davenport stepped into the box and was caught off the base. Drennan fouled out to Burch.

In the eighth after Tanner had filed out to O'Dell, Hickey doubled to right field. Malmquist advanced, but a swinging bunt was caught off the base. Drennan fouled out to Burch.

Left Fielder Hickey Brings in Three Runs

John Hickey, of Watervleat, New York, by getting himself on base, often enough yesterday enabled his teammates to produce runs by adding to his bat work. One of his runs was for two bags in the ninth and he was scored by Jesse James. By singling cleanly over second in the first inning he was on base when Malmquist knocked his home run. In the sixth Hickey drove one to Balenti at short which handcuffed the shortstop, but it was a grounder without a rat's hop and the Indian got an error. However, Hickey got on as a result of his connection and therefore was ready with a score when Malmquist sacrificed and James singled.

Houston Takes the First From Gassers

Shreveport, La., April 29.—Houston won the first game of the series here 4 to 2 today by hitting Hendricks effectively. Edmondson gave seven hits, but was strong at all stages. A ninth inning rally netted Shreveport a run on Schraeders' triple and a double by Newton.

Gilmore Refuses to Discuss Kauff Affair

Chicago, April 29.—President Gilmore refused today to comment on Benny Kauff's jump to the Giants further than to say that he felt like complimenting Kauff's tender and President Caffery on their stand in declining to permit Kauff to play. The Federal League would protect its interests, he said, and therefore taking action would await further information on the subject.

Kauff, who was with Indianapolis' Brooklyn Federals accepting $1,500 advance money for signing a three-year contract, according to Gilmore. There was no tendency in his case.

PRIZES FOR SHORT GAMES.

Chicago, April 29.—President Gilmore of the Federal League is considering the advisability of offering a cash prize each month to the members of the team which makes the best record in reducing the time of playing the scheduled games.

"Something must be done to speed up the play as the public does not like to see unnecessary wrangling on the field and a slow-dragging game," said President Gilmore.

GREAT BASEBALL MEETING.

West, April 29.—At a meeting of the directors of the West Baseball club yesterday, L. M. Willie was elected manager.

Sporting Comment

Friday's game begins at 4:30.

O. U. Dodd will be retained by Houston as second string catcher, while Query has been sold to other club, of the Houston club. Lee Lemon probably will also go soon.

Now that pink slip day is almost upon us, several things will be settled definitely. President W. R. Davidson has announced that as Beaumont and Shreveport objected to extending the time for getting within the player limit, but three days were given, until May 1.

McCafferty umpired the game, Ollie Anderson, the San Antonio man, who has been signed by Davidson as fifth umpire not arriving. The Bronx pitcher was pronounced by the best arbiter, especially on balls and strikes, that has worked here this season. Akin, was sent to Fort Worth to handle the game that has been having kicks at the panther city.

Hickey yesterday hit the pace that looked dead to the form that he has given indications of having when at himself. Incidentally Crichtlow was put in the sixth and on his second trip to bat hit out a double. Drennan also looked good in a run to first, when he almost beat out a ball hit to Knaupp, on spite of the fact that Knaupp handled it perfectly. In fact McCafferty was criticised the only time for the afternoon for calling the rapid young man out on the play. It was close at worst. This leads up to the question, what will Hardy do. Will he let Crichtlow, or Drennan, or Drennan. The only consolation fans can get out of the unfavorable position the Big Skipper is placed in, is that he is a very good choice any way. Hickey is going at a good gait now, and there is no reason to believe he will not continue, and even better. Crichtlow is always steady, a good fielder, fast on bases and a more than fair hitter. Drennan, with his speed and good fielding, would make a good man in the outfield, and on bases. Well it's Hardy's problem.

Fred Merkle Breaks Arm; Jim Thorpe Is Released to Jersey

New York, April 29.—Fred Merkle, first baseman of the New York National League club, fell in trying to field a wild throw, and broke his arm. He was taken to the hospital, and is expected to be out of the game for several weeks.

Harrah Better in Pitchers Duel, Wins

Meanwhile Umpire Eason had been in communication with President Tender of the National League, and according to a statement by Secretary John A. ## MARKET REPORT

COTTON

New York, April 29.—Cotton was quiet today with prices easing off under reaction from the previous day's advance.

The market opened barely steady on relatively easy cables, reports of showers or rain in the eastern belt, selling by house with Liverpool connection and local liquidation. Reports that over an inch of rain had fallen in the Raleigh section were not confirmed, however, and after showing a net loss of about 2 to 6 points the market steadied slightly on the eastern belt forecast for fair weather tonight and tomorrow and the prospect for unsettled or cloudy weather in parts of the southwest.

The market eased off again during the afternoon under New Orleans selling, renewed liquidation and a little pressure from local traders.

Closing prices were the lowest of the day. The easier turn in New Orleans was accompanied by reports of free spot offerings there and Liverpool reported a less active spot demand while there were rumors around the ring here that some of the larger spot houses had been quiet during the day.

Detailed weather reports showed more or less general, but light showers in the Montgomery, Atlanta and Savannah districts, while no further precipitation of consequence was reported in the western belt.

New Orleans.

New Orleans, April 29.—Cotton gradually worked to lower levels today under selling based on improvement in weather and crop accounts, the growing belief in a fairly large acreage and unfavorable cable advices. War news was not considered encouraging and had more or less effect in the afternoon. The unfavorable statement of the Bank of England also was a factor that caused quotations by the market to drop. Following the marking down of local spot quotations by 13 points, the market took on a new easy undertone. At the lowest of the day prices were 11 to 13 points under yesterday's final figures; the close was 9 to 12 points under.

Trading was not active and despite the numerous bearish features bears were not aggressive. Only at times was there much selling pressure on the market and generally moderate buying served to hold prices up. This appeared to be due to the firmness with which spots in the interior were being held. Spot buyers continued to report difficulty in securing the grades they wanted except at stiff prices.

STOCKS AND BONDS

New York, April 29.—Circumstantial reports that additional contracts for war supplies had been awarded to American manufacturers contributed to today's active stock market. The equipment and industrial shares which recently figured prominently in this connection scored advances ranging from 2 to 6 points. Westinghouse Electric making a high record.

In point of actual performance, Westinghouse was the pivot around which the list revolved. That stock, on dealings aggregating about twenty per cent of the whole advanced 1 1/2 points to within the smallest fraction of the year's best price, but fell back toward the close to the accompaniment of adverse trading rumors.

Although the volume of business was below that of recent active sessions today's movement was broad, taking in almost every division of the list. Standard Oil, American Telephone and Telegraph and railway shares were not especially prominent at any time only a few advances in this class making appreciable gains. On the other hand Missouri, Kansas and Texas and Wabash issues were both strong and active, the former presumably in anticipation of the acceptance of the note extension offer and the latter on publication of its reorganization plan.

The local bond market yielded none of yesterday's strength, but trading was active. Lighter issues of the Southern Railway were higher and Wabash funding four rose over five points.

Sales, par value, aggregated $3,320,000.

United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Sales, High, Low, Close.

MADE-IN-WACO EXPOSITION BRINGING RESULTS ALREADY

Thirty-two Manufacturers Represented Tell of Increased Business—Every Day Is a Record Breaker. Program Under Auspices of Central Labor Council. Chamber of Commerce in Charge Tonight.

Tonight's Program.
The Chamber of Commerce will have charge of the entertainment program tonight. Music will be rendered by the First Baptist quartet, composed of Mrs. Joseph Wren, Miss Juanita Smith and Messrs. Payne and Morgan. Charles Parker and his saxophone quartet. Selections from "The Mikado" will be given by Misses Duncan, Keith and Thumman, accompanied by Miss Lewine. Miss Goldie Lazarus will give a dancing number.

Thirty-two manufacturers having exhibits in the Made-in-Waco exposition were interviewed yesterday in the effort to ascertain the extent to which the enthusiasm of the Made-in-Waco exposition is being translated into cold, hard results over the counters of Waco merchants who sell Made-in-Waco merchandise. Thirty-two answers were received, all to the effect that results already obtained, which can be accredited to the exposition and the publicity campaign which preceded it alone, have more than repaid all expense and trouble to which the manufacturers put themselves to make the Made-in-Waco exposition possible.

And this is only the beginning, say the manufacturers. Publicity of general nature, such as is given by the exposition, is by nature somewhat slow in giving results, which all the more surely arrive. Increasingly greater returns from their investments in the Made-in-Waco exposition will follow through the weeks after the show is over, supplemented by the direct advertising campaign that will be put on by the individual manufacturers.

"Community Co-operation" is the keynote of the efforts of the Young Men's Business League, which have culminated in the Made-in-Waco exposition, one of the most remarkable demonstrations of its kind that has ever been afforded the country.

Every day is a record breaker now at the Made-in-Waco exposition. Still larger crowds last night pressed about the booths on the lower floor and up the stairs to the auditorium on the second floor, where the Central Labor council was sponsor for the program of the night's entertainment, consisting of addresses, songs and a concert by Alessandro's band, which is composed of union musicians.

The scene of the exposition floor between 9 and 10 o'clock last night, when the prize awards were being announced, was most impressive. Swaying crowds pressed around the booths, following the announcements of the building as he went from booth to booth announcing the winners. Demonstrators and attendants at the booths had a busy time all the afternoon and last night until the hall closed at 11 o'clock.

The program in the auditorium of the Made-in-Waco exposition last night was in charge of the union labor of the city, under the auspices of the Central Labor council. Union musicians gave their services in the band which played a complete concert. Mrs. Gertrude Mills Hunnicutt sang the aria, "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from "The Bohemian Girl," accompanied by a full orchestra from the band. As an encore, Mrs. Hunnicutt sang "Annie Laurie." As the band played the prelude to the old, familiar song, applause broke from the great crowd of persons in the auditorium, which only halted during the singing, to break out anew as Mrs. Hunnicutt retired.

J. B. Dismukes, tenor, sang the tender "Then You'll Remember Me," from the light opera, "Bohemian Girl." Mr. Dismukes responded to an encore.

Union labor's stand on the mail order houses was stated by E. M. Duke, who was introduced by A. H. B. Corneliussen, chairman of the arrangements committee of the Central Labor council. Mr. Duke pleaded for support of local merchants, saying that only in this way can a city be built. Mr. Duke's remarks were greeted with applause. G. C. Merritt spoke on the subject of "Organization," explaining the efficiency of the labor unions and applying the principle to all forms of effort toward mutual benefit.

Prof. Victor Alessandro led his splendid band during the concert. As the opening number, the band played Mr. Alessandro's own "Cotton Palace March," "Made-in-Waco," which was appreciatively applauded by the audience.

EXPOSITION NOTES.

R. V. Holland, son of F. P. Holland, of the Holland Publications in Dallas, arrived early last night for a couple of days' visit with Manager H. A. Armstrong of the exposition. "I have met many pleasant surprises in my life, but for me to see and know that Waco produces what is on display in the exposition building and to learn that many of the things she produces could not be gotten into the hall is indeed a pleasant surprise to me. I congratulate Waco, the B. L. and Mr. Armstrong on the most successful exhibition that Texas has ever seen, and I know of much lasting good that it has done already," said Mr. Holland.

J. B. Elliott, traveling representative of the Roberts, Johnson & Rand Shoe company, paid the exposition hall a visit today. "Waco has certainly surprised me," he said. "I have heard of times as a manufacturing center, but none of the conversations or expressions have anything near come up to what you have. Mr. Elliott makes every city in Texas and is in position to tell pretty nearly about things as they really are."

Frank J. Traut, who has just returned from a trip through the country brings in a very optimistic report. Mr. Traut says that people are very busy now but most of them are going to the exposition, and in and see what Waco really produces.

There have been nine hundred farmers registered to date from the country adjacent to Waco. All express themselves as greatly pleased and surprised at what the city on the Brazos produces.

When Manager H. A. Armstrong arrived at his office yesterday he found a beautiful bouquet of flowers. Investigation proved that the flowers were sent with the compliments of the Mohan Florist company. Mr. Mohan is a great booster for Waco and is a "Waco Made" flower grower. He is not represented at the exposition, not wishing to compete with the ladies of the churches, but has been a great booster for it.

Chief of Police R. L. Bailey of West paid the exposition a visit Thursday and expressed himself as thoroughly pleased with the wonderful display of "Made in Waco" products. "Waco can depend upon the people of West boosting her products every day in the year, and I certainly want to compliment you on the display made here. It looks like the Cotton Palace to me," Mr. Bailey remarked. Mr. Bailey is the tallest officer in the state, and he gave out the information while here that many West citizens would be at the exposition the coming days.

Mrs. J. P. Duncan, 900 South Seventeenth street, received the ten-pound cake of pure hog lard offered by the Brazos Packing company. Miss Nannie Swafford received the ink well offered by the Standard Printing company.

The sack of Live Oak Poultry feed given away last night by the Mr. L. Webster company went to Miss Ethel Warren, 1916 Mitchell street.

G. M. Knebel, 2212 Barnard, held the lucky number in the drawing for the ice book given away by the Big 4 Ice company at the exposition last night.

Mrs. Henry Hickerson, 1128 North Thirteenth street, received the bottle of Mott's Goose furniture polish given away by the Cotto-Waco company last night. Miss Burl Bryan, 2100 Gorman street, received the prize Wednesday night, and Mrs. J. A. Harrison, 901 North Fifteenth street, Tuesday night.

Miss Clara Reese received the ice book given away last night by Geyer Ice company.

The flashlight given away last night by the Waco Auto Supply company went to Joe Thomas.

I. Friedsam announces that a large dressed turkey will be given as a premium to the person who suggests the most appropriate name to be given to home cured hams prepared by this firm. The award of the turkey will be made at the booth tonight.

A correctly appointed dressing table for Milady's boudoir is shown in the booth of the Behrens Drug company at the main entrance of the Made-in-Waco exposition. The table shows all the toilet accessories and articles that are needed by the lady of fashion. Preparations for every need of the toilet are manufactured by the Behrens Drug company and samples of these are distributed from the booth.

One side of the booth is taken up by a display of Oxidine, a tonic for chills and fever, manufactured by the Behrens Drug company in its laboratories in Waco. This product enjoys a nationwide sale as one of the most successful treatments for these diseases.

Wasadoco Windows and Doors Attractive

Of interest to the builders and planners of homes is the booth of the Waco Sash and Door company, the manufacturers of the Wasadoco brands of goods for the home and office. One of the most artistic doors ever shown in Waco is the single panel circassian walnut at the booth. It is embellished with five plate glass panels graduated in length, with the longest one in the center, and smaller on either side. The door shows special hollow insulating construction and extra heavy veneer.

which prevents excessive shrinking or warping or swelling.

There are also several other samples of the work of the company. Among them plain doors, windows, office doors, etc. Showing their line of work in the glass line is one window of art glass and one of leaded glass, both well built and artistically put together.

Over the booth is the sign, "Waco Sash and Door Co., Manufacturers of the Celebrated Wasadoco Brands. Keep Texas money in Texas." Just under the sign is a large picture showing their plant in detail. On another sign is the appropriate wording, "Money spent in Texas will come back to you."

Home Cured Meats Are Featured at Friedsam's Booth

"Like the smoke-house hams grandmother tells about," is one of the mottoes over the I. W. Friedsam booth at the Made in Waco exposition. But smoke-house hams are not the only things shown. There is a large variety of Friedsam meats, lard and vegetables, all so attractively arranged that they make the mouth water for a taste. And Mrs. Friedsam and Mrs. A. J. Traut, in charge of the booth, take advantage of this and hand out appetizing little sandwiches that hit just the right spot.

"We cure our own hams and bacon," "We slaughter our own meats." These mottoes were raised on I. W. Friedsam's truck farm. These are a few of the mottoes arranged around the booth. Home cured meats, pure lard and home grown vegetables are featured in the booth as they are at Mr. Friedsam's big store.

Popular! Well, say—the Friedsam booth is always surrounded by a crowd and the fact that the good things to eat were cured or grown in Waco adds much to the booth's drawing power.

Grocery So Different Booth Is Complete Delicatessen Store

A complete delicatessen store is the exhibit of the Grocery So Different at the Made-in-Waco exposition. Glass cases surround the large booth, and in these cases are displayed every imaginable dainty to tempt the appetite fagged by the hot weather, and to liberate the housewife who has been compelled to spend hours over a hot stove in the summer time. One case contains salads of every conceivable kind, daintily arranged. To prove that they are as good as they look, samples are served by the attendants at the booth.

Another case contains cooked meats, dainty and substantial, which the delicatessen department of the Grocery

So Different is prepared to serve to their patrons on short notice. A case of cakes, pies and candies shows the work of the bakery at the Grocery So Different. Tiers of fancy bottled foods and relishes complete the exhibit.

The booth is in charge of F. L. Fields, caterer of the Grocery So Different. Mr. Fields said that his department caters especially to parties, banquets, home dinners, etc., and is amply equipped to give prompt and satisfying service.

Cocowheatat Served at Exposition Booth

A satisfying food, "Made in Waco," is demonstrated in the booth of the Cocowheatat company, which is located just to the right of the main entrance of the Made-in-Waco exposition. Samples of the delicious food are served by Mrs. Campbell, the demonstrator, who explains that the food is especially valuable for school lunches.

Cocowheatat is a new food being manufactured in Waco. It has been on the market but a short time, but has attained wide popularity. As its name indicates, the food is a combination of the most compact and nutritious food elements known to science. The sustaining qualities of the cocoa bean, whole wheat, rice and iron, drives out malaria, enriches blood, builds up the whole system, etc.

The Cocowheatat company is expanding its business to include all Texas cities. Its exhibit at the Made-in-Waco exposition is a bid for the support of home people for a home product, which is entirely worthy of such support.

Whenever You Need a General Tonic Take Groves.

The Old Standard Groves' Tasteless Tonic is equally valuable as a General Tonic because it contains the well known tonic properties of QUININE and IRON. Drives out malaria, enriches blood, builds up the whole system, etc.
